SBA Clears Way For Loans To Ease Flood Loss

by BARRY SIGALE

Flood-ravaged portions of Cook and DuPage counties yesterday were declared disaster areas by the Small Business Administration (SBA).

The announcement, released by SBA administrator Thomas Kleppe, means that persons in the Northwest suburbs who suffered flood damage from last weekend's heavy rains may now receive low-cost, long-term loans to restore or replace damaged property not covered by insurance policies.

The directive applies to homeowners and tenants, business people, churches and private schools and other non-profit organizations in the affected areas.

Robert A. Dwyer, Midwest regional director of the SBA, yesterday said offices will be set up in the affected areas to accept loan applications. The offices should be in operation by the end of this week.

IN CONNECTION with residential losses, Dwyer said, affected persons may qualify for loans of up to $50,000 for real estate, of up to $10,000 for personal property and of up to $55,000 for a combination of real estate and personal property.

Disaster business loans are limited to $500,000, Dwyer said.

Dwyer said a new law signed by President Nixon Aug. 16 directs the SBA to "forgive or suspend payments of up to a maximum of $5,000 in all disaster loans." In other words, anyone borrowing up to $5,000 would not have to pay the loan back. If a loan is for more than $5,000, payment would have to be made on the difference between the loan after subtracting the $5,000. In each case, a one per cent interest rate will be charged on all loans.

Dwyer said the SBA would accept loan applications for processing without a contractor's estimate. He added the burden of proof of loss is on the borrower. The borrower must present an itemized, bona fide estimate of loss, according to Dwyer. The SBA staff will then check the accuracy of the claims with the borrower.

Dwyer said the new legislation also permits the SBA to refinance existing home mortgages where substantial damage has been sustained so long as the borrower's monthly payment is not reduced.

The law also authorizes the SBA to suspend principle payments for retirees in hardship cases, Dwyer said.

U. S. REP. Roman Pucinski, D-11th, suggested yesterday that persons affected by flooding should take photographs of any damages as further proof of their accuracy.

Representatives of several Northwest suburban municipalities have been contacted by one or more governmental agencies. Local officials presented these updated figure of the amount of damage in each of their communities:

Elk Grove Village Manager Charles Willis said he estimated damage to property in the village and public sanitary sewer system to be from $1,629,000 to $1,789,000, although he stressed these were "ballpark" figures. Most of that estimate related to the damage of computers in the basement of Centex North Plaza, 700 Nicholas Blvd. Damage estimates there amount to about $1.4 million alone, Willis said. The Elk Grove Village Library remains closed after water in the basement reached the ceiling. The basement of Alexian Brothers Medical Center had eight feet of water in its basement.

Mount Prospect — Village Manager Robert Eppley said he has estimated damage to about 1,000 of the villages 12,000 residences at between $1 and $3 million.

Rolling Meadows — Partial estimates indicate at least $575,000 in damages in the city with $500,000 of that directly related to the damages of the Three Fountain Apartment complex. At least $75,000 in damages was linked to residential flooding. In addition, another estimated $8,000 in damages was done to the city's water control electrical equipment.

Arlington Heights — Officials there gave an estimated damage figure of about $1.5 million, also calling it a "ballpark" figure. No breakdown of damage was reported.

DES PLAINES — No breakdown of damage was available. The city's western edge was most affected by flooding and residents are still cleaning up the area. City officials said it cost less than $1,000 to clean up and restore the area.

Hoffman Estates — Mayor Frederick Downey was contacted by the SBA but he could not estimate the damage. The mayor urged residents who sustained damage to notify Village Administrator George Longmeyer, who will relay the information to the SBA.

Officials from Schaumburg, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Palatine have not been contacted by any governmental agencies and do not have an estimate of damages.

Students From All Over The World Hear Jerry, Jed

Roommates 'Globetrotters' At Home

by NANCY COWGER

Jerry Grant and Jed Guilloz, International Village roommates, are not world travelers.

But they take special pleasure in the fact they "can go any place in the world, and know someone."

The world came to them last winter, when they taught a series of four-day seminar courses in the practicalities of construction projects for 300 International Harvester Co. equipment salesmen from across the United States and the globe. Their students were from France, Australia, South Africa, Singapore, Germany and Mexico. While some of the visitors to the U.S. spoke English or had interpreters, Guilloz found himself capitalizing on his college French to communicate with others.

The two men left their Schaumburg apartment between January and May this year to teach 10 sessions of the school they had designed and created. There are also seven other instructors.

GUILLOZ AND GRANT are distributor salesmen in International's construction equipment division in Melrose Park.

Both started in the summer of 1970, Guilloz moving to Schaumburg then, and Grant joining him at International Village a year later. They will move soon to Barrington Lakes, Hoffman Estates.

They say they were attracted to International Village by recreation facilities, buildings and people, and because the complex was "out towards the country." They are moving "for a change," and because "the country" has moved beyond them.

Because the two men sell to distributors, they have contact with consumers only when there are specialized questions the "front-line" salesmen can't handle.

The four-day courses were designed to minimize those questions — to give the dealership salesmen a closer working knowledge of the costs and problems potential customers face. With a basic understanding of how to figure the contractor's costs for a particular project, the salesmen can present their clients with figures comparing International products with those of its competitors.

TOO MANY TIMES, the dealer calls on men like Grant and Guilloz to provide that type of information for a sales presentation work-up, they said. It was becoming a disproportionate part of their responsibilities.

The school was well-received, said Guilloz. Roughly 80 per cent of the salesmen-students had never operated an International Harvester construction machine. The class gave them a chance to satisfy any urges to drive the large equipment around. They worked on roads, basements and quarries, and figured the cost for each job. Grant termed the sessions a success, in that they helped bring many salesmen with varying levels of knowledge to a more universal standard, a point from which to start in future courses.

And there will be other courses, Grant and Guilloz expect. They are to instruct another group of students in what they call "Earthmoving I" this fall, probably starting in October. They hope to begin with "Earthmoving II" next January.

But the class was a personal success for the two Schaumburg residents as well. At first, there were minor difficulties. Grant recalled a group of men that asked him "how you expect some guy that's been in the business two years to teach a bunch of people who have been in business 20 years."

BUT AS THE MEN became acquainted, their mutual interest in construction machinery bridged age and experience blocks, and helped create friendships.

Satisfaction came, too, from the reaction of the students. While the salesmen did not have to pay for attending the school, it cost them commissions they might have earned had they stayed on the job, said Guilloz. But International has received a stack of letters complimenting it on having offered a sales school that meant something, and provided a practical basis from which a salesman could build, said Grant.

The rewards were particularly great for Guilloz, and for one very special student, his father. Charles F. Guilloz of Long Island attended school taught by his son.

"It was different. I enjoyed it — after 25 years of him teaching me, I finally had a chance to impart a little knowledge I've gotten from International on to him," said Guilloz.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon announced that 12,000 U.S. troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam in the next three months but declared there will be no preselection halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

President Nixon conceded there had been some "technical violations" of the new campaign law in the management of his campaign funds, but he said the Democratic side was guilty of similar violations.

Sen. George S. McGovern sought to assure Wall Street that he is not radical by junking his controversial $1,000 a person grant plan and promising if elected to name conservative Rep. Wilbur B. Mills as his treasury secretary.

Army intelligence agents amassed dossiers on millions of American civilians in a massive, uncoordinated surveillance operation dating from the eve of World War II to the early 1970s, a Senate subcommittee reported.

The World

A 250-pound bomb, apparently smuggled through a security checkpoint at Belfast's dockyards in a truck, blew up and damaged a warehouse, the army said. There were no injuries.

A South Korean Red Cross delegation arrived in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang for the first official conference between the two sides since the Korean War.

The State

Striking teachers at the suburban school districts of Berkeley and Bloom Townships voted to return to classes. Teachers are striking in some districts.

Former Chicago Alderman Fred Hubbard probably will be tried on state charges after the federal government prosecutes him on charges of taking $100,000 from the "Chicago Plan" before he disappeared in May, 1971, officials said.

Top leaders of the AFL-CIO meeting in Chicago have looked back at the first year of President Nixon's wage and price controls and concluded workers have had to bear the brunt of the administration's fight against inflation.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has begun his 2½-week tour of the state in a camper and in Marion promised improved roads, more money to common schools and revenue sharing.

The War

Vice Admiral J. L. Holloway III, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, personally led a combined sea and air attack deep into North Vietnamese waters, sinking two PT boats and blasting land targets within two miles of Haiphong, North Vietnam's major port.

Sports

Mark Spitz set his third world record and won his third gold Olympic gold medal when he overtook America teammate Steve Genter to win the men's 200-meter freestyle in 1:52.8. Unsung teenager Sandra Neilsen of El Monte, Calif., upset teammate Shirley Babashoff and heavily favored Shane Gould of Australia to win the gold medal in the women's 100-meter freestyle.

The Market

The stock market closed mixed in a cut and dried performance, despite an address to the financial community by Sen. George S. McGovern, and a further recall of troops by President Nixon. The Dow Jones Average closed down 2.25 at 954.70. Declines edged advances, 773 to 630, among 1,748 issues on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover totaled 12,300,000 shares, up from 10,720,000 the previous session. Prices declined in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Foes Of Wheel Tax Win Round

by ROGER CAPELLINI

While the opponents of the Cook County wheel tax are claiming victory after a favorable court ruling Monday, their cause for celebration may be short-lived.

Officials at the county building may have a plan which will cause the opponents of the tax to lose the war, even though they have won the latest battle.

The legal maneuvering being considered is in response to Circuit Court Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's ruling Monday that the county wheel tax is unconstitutional.

The county board approved the tax in December and estimated it would provide an additional $600,000 a year to the county treasury. The tax, similar to the vehicle tax in 125 of the 126 communities in the county, ranges from $10 to $15 for most automobiles to $95 for certain heavy vehicles.

The legality of the tax was challenged in a class action suit brought by the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

During pretrial motions Monday, Judge Sarnow ruled the tax is unconstitutional. He said for the tax ordinance to be consistent with home rule provisions of the constitution it must specify the purpose to which the revenues will be applied and must specifically segregate the funds received.

ADDITIONALLY, the judge said, the county must provide, within the ordinance, additional services to the people being taxed.

The county ordinance currently meets none of those requirements.

County Pres. George W. Dunne said yesterday, however, the county board could satisfy those criteria simply by amending the ordinance to specify the purpose and to segregate the revenue. Dunne earlier had announced publicly the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for use by the county sheriff's department.

The county board could also satisfy the requirement for additional services by amending the ordinance to include a section specifying the money be used for a service not currently provided by the county.

For example, the county could designate the funds be used to establish and develop the new crime lab for the sheriff's department now being planned for the new sheriff's police facility in west suburban Berkeley.

Such action might be expected from the county board, however, only if other legal measures fail when the parties to the suit return to Judge Sarnow's courtroom today.

At that time Edward Berman, attorney for the PHIA, is expected to submit for the judge's signature a formal order reflecting the verbal order issued Monday.

BERMAN SAID yesterday he has no doubt the judge will sign such an order.

Asst. State's Atty. Paul Biebel, representing the county, has promised to appeal the ruling. Biebel said Monday the ruling came only on his motion to dismiss the PHIA contention the ordinance was unconstitutional. Biebel said the judge did not rule on the issues.

Judge Sarnow told the Herald yesterday, however, there is no reason to argue the facts or issues if the tax ordinance is unconstitutional on its face.

Biebel is also expected to file a motion to "stay" the order. A "stay" order or the filing of an appeal will delay a final order from the court.

Both Dunne and Berman emphasized that until a final order is entered, residents of unincorporated areas will have to continue to display the wheel tax sticker on their vehicles. Dunne said if the tax ultimately is struck down, the money received by the county and now being held in an escrow account, will be refunded to those residents who have paid the tax.

Randhurst Fireworks Display Set Friday

A fireworks display at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect has been rescheduled for Friday, weather permitting.

The display, set for 9:45 p.m., had to be postponed a week because of last Friday's heavy rain storm. The fireworks are part of Randhurst's Tenth Year Anniversary celebration.

The fireworks, all aerial, will be set off in the northwest section of the Randhurst parking lot, Euclid Avenue and Elmhurst roads. There is no admission charge.

Also part of Randhurst's birthday celebration, the winner of a 1972 Ford Pinto was announced Sunday. Terry Martinson, 18, of Arlington Heights won the car.

SOFT CURVES WILL form the approaches to the junction of Higgins and Golf roads when it is completely realigned and opened in mid-November. Widening of Higgins and addition of signal lights are expected to relieve the traffic jam at the intersection, which now has 4-way stop signs. Curving Higgins will make the angles at the junction less acute. Until realignment is complete, left, left, turns from Higgins are illegal. Delays in finishing utility relocations put the completion date off from October 1.

'Bedroom A Septic Tank'

Board Hears Flood Problems

Victims of Friday's flood have told of problems ranging from raw sewage in a children's bedroom to fear that an entire home would be washed away in the next heavy rain. Their troubles were poured on Hoffman Estates trustees Monday.

In each case, the residents were told the village public works or building departments would investigate the complaint and report findings to the village board. Solutions will be sought, they were told. Among problems to be solved were those of:

—Douglas Ackman, 593 Edgefield Ln., who said "I really don't like my family room and my children's bedroom to be used as a septic tank." When storm sewers were unable to carry off rain water, sewage backed into his and a neighbors' homes.

Some neighbors stuffed their toilets with rags, and put standpipes over open floor drains to block the tide, he said, but "if you have continuing back pressure it will blow the lines or will blow the floor out."

While this is the first time Ackman's home was flooded, it is the fourth time in two years for some of his neighbors, who complained once before, he said. The problem still exists, and causes substantial loss in carpeting and furnishings, he added.

Ackman reminded the board the village paid a claim to one of the residents the first time the problem occurred, which was verified by Trustee Virginia Hayter.

—MRS. WILLIAM Hubbell, 581 Edgefield Ln., reporting on the same problem as cited by Ackman, was asked by Trustee William Cowin, "We can promise you anything, but do you want Arpege or do you want corrective action?" "Arpege would help," Mrs. Hubbell responded, keeping the odor of sewage in mind.

—Robert Moran, 215 Northview Ln., told of regular flooding problems over the past five years. "I have a lake view everytime it rains," Moran said he had been flooded with raw sewage twice and one of his neighbors had experienced it three times. Water seeps up from under his bathroom tile and comes in "right through the walls," he said, predicting, "One more flood and my house won't be standing."

Moran believes flooding by his house is due to the filling in of a ditch, into which their property normally would drain. McAllister Equipment Co., north of the tollroad would receive the runoff. The ditch has been filled with loads of fresh dirt, and is to be relocated, he said. When Village Atty. Edward Hofert asked if it appeared there had been a violation of law, Streets Supt. Kenneth Dean said he believes the ditch had been deliberately filled. The land is privately owned, and the village has no easement along the ditch.

HOFERT SUGGESTED a village engineer examine Moran's house for structural soundness, and requested a report from Dean to determine if legal action against the equipment company is in order.

—Alan Scarboro, 146 Elmwood Ln., and David Schuman, 142 Elmwood Ln., whose yards have been flooded with water three times since July 20, blamed the sudden advent of the problem on School District 211. Their yards never flooded until construction started on Hoffman Estates High School, they claimed.

The village now is looking for the "source of half a million dollars, or perhaps $600,000," to install twin 66-inch storm sewers along Higgins Road, she said.

Bill Martin

Institute Day Will Open School Year

About 725 teachers of Schaumburg Township Elementary School Dist. 54 will officially open the school year Tuesday by reporting for scheduled meetings. First day of school for the students is next Wednesday.

An institute day has been scheduled in the Woodfield Theater in Schaumburg for the staff, special services personnel and administrators.

Teachers will meet at the theater for morning sessions with afternoon meetings slated at the schools for the faculty of each building.

Opening the institute meeting will be welcome talks by Hoffman Estates Mayor Fred Downey and Mrs. Dianne L. Hart president of the board of education.

Two persons will speak. Dr. Bill Martin, writer of children's literature, will be the featured speaker.

A graduate of Northwestern University with a Doctor of Philosophy degree, Martin at one time was principal of the Crow Island Elementary School in nearby Winnetka. He currently is employed by a major educational materials publisher.

The program's second speaker, Tom Atchinson of the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, will discuss "Behavior Modification," and its uses in the classroom as a tool to motivate children for better achievement.

Arrangements for the day's program were made by a committee of teachers who served during the year on the growth in-service committee under the chairmanship of Principal Susan McCann.

Correction

High School Dist. 211 will celebrate Veteran's Day on Oct. 23, not on Oct. 28 as reported in yesterday's Herald.

The Oct. 23 date is the official holiday declared by the U.S. government. The state of Illinois has declared Nov. 11 to be Veteran's Day, but the board last week decided to celebrate the federal holiday.

Lack Of Sidewalks Again Bring Parent Complaints

The lack of sidewalks in certain areas of Hilldale Village, Hoffman Estates, is again bringing complaints from parents whose children will walk to John Muir School.

Martin L. Katcher, 1708 Fayette Walk, Hoffman Estates, said there are no sidewalks on Huntington Boulevard, a private street in Hilldale Village.

Katcher said his child will walk along Huntington Boulevard to Hassell Road where John Muir School is located. Recently, Multicon Corp., the developer of Hilldale Village, installed sidewalks on Hassell Road.

"The sidewalks on Hassell don't do my child and the children of other neighbors much good. They still have to walk down Huntington which is a dangerous street," Katcher said.

According to Katcher, Huntington is a winding street with hills that obscure drivers' vision at certain points. "All it takes is one driver coming around one of the hills, and one child, and there could be an accident," Katcher said.

School Dist. 54 has no plans to bus children from Hilldale Village, Katcher said. "They bus children from Moon Lake Village which is just across Higgins Road. I intend to go to the next school board meeting and ask again for busing for children who have to walk along these dangerous streets," Katcher said.

BECAUSE HUNTINGTON Boulevard is a private street, it is Multicon's choice to install sidewalks. Richard Regan, Plan Commission chairman, said sidewalks along the street were not included in the plans the village approved for the development.

"However, I recognize there is a problem. I intend to review the situation and see if a system of sidewalks can be worked out.

"Possibly instead of along Huntington, we could get a system of sidewalks tying in with those in Barrington Square, Kaufman and Broad's development. We'll try for a direct sidewalk route to John Muir School," Regan said.

New management just came into Multicon, said Regan, adding he would try to encourage them to install sidewalks. But, as Regan explained, sidewalks cannot be installed instantly.

Hilldale Village was developed as a joint venture by Multicon, a Columbus corporation, and Bethlehem Steel, a Cleveland corporation.

"We may have to run the gamut from the local management to the Ohio offices before we can persuade them to expend $5,000 to $10,000 for sidewalks," Regan said.

Swim Events Labor Day

Looking for a chance to push a greased watermelon the length of a swimming pool or dive for coins on the pool bottom?

Hoffman Estates residents will have the chance to participate in these and other activities on Labor Day as the Hoffman Estates Park District winds up its summer swimming season.

The special events program is slated to begin at 1 p.m. Monday at the Lions Pool on Grand Canyon Parkway in Hoffman Estates. During the 90-minute program awards will be presented to the most improved swimmers during the summer, demonstrations by the competitive swim team, life saving, and boating skills and the special contests will be staged for local residents.

The coin diving event will be opened to youngsters 8-years-old and younger. Coins will be tossed into the shallow end of the pool.

The greased watermelon event, where the object is to get the slippery object from one end to the other, will be open to older children.

After the special events, the pool will be open until 9 p.m. for the general swimming program. Labor Day marks the final session for the pool this season.

'Largest' Camera Store To Open

Billed as the largest camera store in the Midwest, Lions Photo Supply, will open its doors to customers next week in Schaumburg. The store is at 500 E. Golf Rd., Schaumburg.

Rob Larsen, owner of the store, said the facility will have everything the amateur of professional camera man might need.

In addition to a complete selection of cameras, photo processing and darkroom equipment, Larsen said the store will offer a custom photo finishing service.

Larsen said the store will have about 10,000 square feet of selling space. He said the definite opening day depends on how soon all merchandise can be received.

Larsen, from Northbrook, also owns Jeron Camera in Evanston.

He said that Stan Cook will serve as general manager of the store.

A major grand opening is planned for the end of September, Larsen said. At that time, cameras, darkroom equipment and other photo supplies will be given away as prizes in an introductory contest.

as loud as the hoofs on the track Monday. They say that the track isn't what it used to be, commenting there is as much dirt in the stands as on the track. Most confessed that they will be back next year, however.

Operation Nutrition To Continue

Public pressure has resulted in an agreement to continue the Operation Nutrition program in Cook County for another year.

Due to public pressure, especially from this area, funds for Operation Nutrition will be released for September and there is also a verbal agreement to fund the program for another year, said Mrs. Karen Stanley, director of the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Operation Nutrition is a supplemental food program aimed at meeting the nutrition needs of the poor in suburban Cook County. Locally the program is administered by the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows and serves 300 families in the Northwest suburbs.

Operation Nutrition was threatened with suspension or discontinuation next month because funds for the program were being withheld. Congress had appropriated the funds but they were being withheld until the regional Office of Economic Opportunity submitted a proposal for their use.

THE PROPOSAL was not expected to be ready until October and reactivation of the program was expected to take another month. This would have meant a two-month suspension of the program.

The only problem now is the program is being funded at a much lower level than last year.

Last year Cook County received $20,000 a month to operate the program but this year the funding is being slashed to $12,000 a month.

The food was shipped to a central warehouse in Chicago where it was broken into prescription packages to fit the needs of the families last year. In order to cut back on costs the food will now be shipped in case lots to the various administering centers where it will be broken down into packages for the individual families.

This means we will need a lot of volunteers to help us package the food each month, said Mrs. Stanley. Another proposal to cut back on costs is to send the volunteers right to the central warehouse, she said.

Mrs. Stanley said the center will probably have to raise another $1,000 locally in order to continue the program.

'Closer Watch' On Children Is Urged

Hoffman Estates parents should supervise their children more carefully, so the youngsters will not steal street signs; steal, break or play with barricade blinker lights, or steal grocery carts and deposit them in drainage ditches throughout the village.

The suggestions came from village trustees Monday night, as they cited a list of grievances they said can be costly to the village, and result in higher taxes.

Trustee Bruce Lind promised persons stealing street signs "will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law." He asked for a cost figure for sign replacement, and was quoted a price of $25 to $30 per double-faced sign by Streets Supt. Kenneth Dean.

"Blinker lights in village barricades cost money, too," said Trustee Virginia Hayter, saying children often play with the lights, or break them.

The trustees directed their strongest criticism at persons who remove grocery carts from store parking lots, leaving them scattered around the village. Adults are as guilty of it as children, they said.

Trustee William Cowin particularly complained of carts pushed into drainage ditches, culverts and creek beds. There they trap debris, he said. Cowin blamed the carts for causing damage to culverts and blocking drainage, which he said results in property damage by causing flooding.

Homeowners Told 'Cut Weeds'

A mandate to homeowners to cut weeds by the 15th day of each month from May through September was approved by the Hoffman Estates Village Board Monday.

In cases where residents do not comply, the village will cut the weeds for them, and bill them $25 per hour for the work. Violators also will be subject to fines of from $10 to $300 for each offense.

While the weeds ordinance was approved with little discussion, another proposed ordinance was amended by the board, and then deferred without final action.

The second ordinance would have conferred the village zoning board of appeals with power to grant variances for signs not meeting village restrictions. As originally proposed, it would have given the zoning board such power for variances up to 50 per cent from size specified in the sign ordinance. Amended, the zoning board power would have been reduced to variances of only 10 per cent.

The trustees now are in the process of adopting a new sign ordinance, prepared by the zoning board. Trustee Diane Jensen suggested action on the variance authority is premature until the sign ordinance is approved.

Three Area Boys Win Olympic Firsts

Three Hoffman Estates boys won first places recently in the area-wide Trace Olympics finals.

Youths from the 18 Trace apartment complexes, owned by Kassuba Development Corp. participated in the contests.

Ray Hagen, 11, of 292 Masa Dr., Hermitage Trace, Hoffman Estates, took first place in the boy's freestyle swimming contest for ages 11 and under.

Randy Burns, 14, of 292 Masa Dr., won the freestyle event for boys 12 through 14 years old, and Gregg Carroll, won the penny find for children 9 years and under.

The championships, held at Walnut Trace in Palos Hills, featured 250 finalists from the residential-recreational community developments of Kassuba. Prizes included trophies, bicycles, chemistry sets, radios, cameras and specially designed beach towels.

Band To March In Labor Day Parade

The Schaumburg High School band will open its marching season in the Schaumburg "September Fest" parade on Labor Day.

In addition, the band has scheduled appearances at five of the Saxons football games and a marching band conference.

Carnival To Fight Muscular Dystrophy

A neighborhood carnival against muscular dystrophy will be held Saturday at 304 Timbercrest Ct., Schaumburg.

Sherri Ettinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ettinger, will serve as ringmaster. Assisting her will be her sisters Debbie and Lauri and Kenny and Susie Grein.

The carnival, from 1 to 5 p.m. will feature bean bag toss, bozo buckets, sponge toss and balloon dart game.

All proceeds will go to the research and patient service programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

9 Policemen On 'Sergeant' List

Nine Schaumburg Policemen have been placed on a list for possible future promotion to the rank of sergeant on the force.

The list was compiled after a written exam, personal interview and other evaluations. It will be used as a basis for future promotions when positions become available.

The policemen were listed in order of high scores. They are John Barabas, Fred Schmidt, David Kujawa, Kenneth Alley, Clifford Johnson, Harvey Woods, Robert Specht, William King and Thomas Osterman.

Barabas, Woods and King are detectives. Johnson handles identification procedures. Alley works as the police consultant for Schaumburg High School. Schmidt, Kujawa, Specht and Osterman work with the patrol and traffic sections.

IN ADDITION to the results of the tests and interviews with the village fire and police commission, the officers may apply points accumulated through military service to boost their positions on the promotional list, said Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy.

Conroy said in addition to the normal testing procedures, psychological tests were given this year for the first time to the applicants for the position.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

Bernard Carey, Republican candidate for state's attorney of Cook County, has discarded one of the time-honored axioms of political campaigning.

He mentions his opponent's name. Repeatedly.

"I can't make him any more well known," Carey declares. "His name is in the headlines every day."

Bernard

His opponent, of course, is Democratic State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan; currently standing trial on charges of obstructing justice in the investigation of Black Panther raid in Chicago in 1969.

"Hanrahan wears that indictment like a badge on his sleeve," Carey told the Elk Grove Republican Organization Monday night. "It's his only claim to fame."

"Because his record as state's attorney is indeed a sorry one."

Carey declared that Hanrahan has obtained convictions of only 50 per cent of the persons indicted since he has been in office.

Edward V.
Hanrahan

"While I was in the FBI, we got convictions of 97 per cent of the cases in which we made arrests," he said.

BIOGRAPHICAL DATA distributed as part of Carey's campaign credits him with convictions in each of more than 100 cases he prepared for trial during his FBI career from 1960 to 1965.

Hanrahan, he said, "dismisses 2,000 cases a year after indictment. Those cases are never adjudicated in a court of law."

"He is bargaining away our right to be free from crime."

Among the cases "bungled" by Hanra-

William J.
Scott

han, Carey cited the Armstrong case, in which a convicted killer of a Chicago policeman had his conviction dismissed by the Supreme Court. Armstrong repudiated his confession after the trial and appealed.

Though the high court declared it believed Armstrong "probably guilty," it was forced to overturn the conviction "because Hanrahan never called one policeman to attest to the conviction," Carey declared.

"Then he blames the judges, the juries, the press, the bar association, and anyone else for the bungling," he added.

Citing other similar cases, Carey concluded that witnesses are in fear of testifying in cases prosecuted by Hanrahan. "They are afraid that the people against whom they testify are soon going to be back in the neighborhood because of the bungling of Ed Hanrahan."

Introducing Carey at Monday's meeting, Art Stevens of Mount Prospect, campaign activities chairman for the Elk Grove organization, called him a "candidate we can win with."

BUT HE CAUTIONED that Carey needs strong Republican support throughout the suburbs to defeat Hanrahan. "In 1970, when he ran for sheriff, Bernard Carey lost by six-tenths of 1 per cent of the vote," said Stevens. "Don't let anyone tell you that individual votes don't count."

Following his career in the FBI, Carey, 37, became undersheriff to Sheriff Joseph I. Woods in 1966. In 1969, he was named deputy director of the new Department of Law Enforcement and charged with organization of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, modeled on the FBI.

Since the 1970 election, he has been a special assistant to Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott, and currently is in charge of the investigation of the estate of the late Secretary of State Paul Powell.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of the competitive nature of politics, members of Congress frequently engage in a status game known as "Oneupmanship."

There are many variations, but basically it works like this: If a certain senator or congressman hits upon a way to enhance his prestige, other senators and congressmen will try to go him one better.

This summer, Oneupmanship has developed a subtle new form, which I shall endeavor to explain at this time.

It goes back to the short-lived Eagleton vice presidential campaign, which made it apparent that undergoing treatment for nervous exhaustion can be politically disadvantageous.

Once that fact of political life became clear, many lawgivers undertook in various ways to assure their constituents that they were in need of such therapy.

IN CONGRESSIONAL Oneupmanship that stratagem is called the "I'm all right, Jack" gambit.

Very well. Once someone has employed the "I'm all right, Jack" gambit, there is nothing further to be gained from it. The next player must come up with a topper.

Which bring us to the "Saner-than-thou" ploy.

Thus far, the Saner-than-thou ploy has been used sparingly, like the Nixmo-Indian defense in the Spassky-Fischer chess match. But it could get vicious before the year is out.

For a reminder of what happens when Oneupmanship reaches that level, hark back to the days of the more-anti-Communist-than-thou ploy.

Vying with each other over which was the more anti-Communist led congressmen into fields that had nothing to do with communism.

It finally got to the point where every time a congressman added another nephew to his payroll he could call it a blow against communism.

IF ANTI-COMMUNISM can be used to justify nepotism, imagine what congressmen could do in the name of sanity.

Here's a hypothetical news release from the office of Senator Hagglethorn:

"Senator Hagglethorn exhibited a high degree of mental soundness today by introducing a bill to create a government price support program for peach fuzz."

"Hagglethorn," whose family operates a large peach defuzzing plant in his home state, said the measure was the most rational way to solve the surplus fuzz problem, which comes about because the fuzz is of no value to anyone.

"He said his sponsorship of the legislation proved he was saner than his opponent in this year's primary, who has accused the senator of having conflicts of interest."

Park Offers Diamonds For Digging

by GEORGE BOOSEY

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Tom Eveners stepped into the shade of one of the few trees surrounding the large dirt field to get some relief from the blazing summer sun.

It was too hot — almost — even for hunting diamonds.

The Eveners, rock hounds from Golden, Colo., were back in Murfreesboro to see if they could find another valuable stone in the Crater of Diamonds State Park, as they did last year.

The park is the site of the only diamond mine in North America. No longer in production, it remains a top tourist attraction, drawing visitors from all over the United States, many of whom actually find diamonds, as the Eveners did.

THE COLORADO couple first visited the crater last summer and went away with a stone that weighed 1.6 carats when cut. According to their jeweler in Colorado the gem is worth about $4,000.

"We only stopped here for a couple of hours that first time," Tom Eveners said, pushing his hat back on his head.

"It made the papers back home," volunteered Marian Eveners, sunburned from a hot day in the field. "They even had it on the evening news."

Mrs. Eveners knelt down as she talked, put on a pair of dirty leather gloves and began breaking the hard, black kimberlite soil with a metal stick. She grabbed a hunk of the dirt and began breaking it apart with her hands hoping to come across one of the round, glistening stones found every day in the crater.

The Eveners had no luck on this day but they'd probably be back, like fishermen to a good spot.

AN AVERAGE of one diamond is found every day by visitors who dig through the crusty soil with sticks, metal rods and anything else strong enough to break through the tough diamond matrix.

Seventy-five per cent of the tourists who visit the crater each year are from out-of-state, with most coming from Texas, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. They pay $2 each for the privilege of getting their fingernails broken and dirty, but they are allowed to keep any stone they turn up.

Diamonds were first discovered here in 1906. John Huddleston was plowing a field, getting ready for spring planting, when he turned up two shiny stones. He took them to a local banker who called in a geologist. They were diamonds.

"I understand it created something of a gold rush around here," said Mrs. Kathryn McCarty, manager of the park.

But the "gold rush" didn't pan out and although several attempts were made to mine the field commercially, none was successful.

SINCE 1952 THE mine has been open to tourists and since then more than 60,000 diamonds have been found, including the biggest, the "Uncle Sam," which weighed 40.23 carats in the rough.

The Arkansas Department of Parks and Tourism acquired the diamond mine last March for $750,000, ending years of multiple-ownership, court battles and attempts from outside interests including Henry Ford and DeBeers Consolidated, to purchase the crater.

Tornado Death Rate Higher In South-Why?

by JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The tornado death rate appears to be disproportionately higher in the South than elsewhere.

A couple of scientists, Dr. John H. Sims of the University of Chicago and Dr. Duane D. Baumann of Southern Illinois University, tried to figure out why.

It's not, they concluded, that tornadoes are more violent in the South than anywhere else or that factors — such as housing quality and population density — are primarily responsible.

One explanation for the South's greater tornado death rate, they have suggested, may be psychological and cultural differences between Southerners and Northerners.

As a consequence of these diversities, the scientists said, Southerners and Northerners respond differently to the tornado watches and warnings issued by the National Weather Service.

SIMS AND BAUMANN offered their ideas in a recent issue of Science, weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The Illinois residents put more trust in what they heard on radio or television than did those of Alabama. The Northerners showed faith in technological expertise and the ability of man to cope with disaster.

The Southerners felt themselves to be controlled by external force — "fate, luck, and, particularly, God." Illinoisans "use their heads and the technology of their society, and they take action," seeking shelter, taking precautions, or alerting others.

"But each Alabamian is on his own and faces the whirlwind alone with his God," the scientists found.

Many other factors may be involved. But, Sims and Baumann said, their findings and interpretations "may be relevant to the disproportionately higher death rate from tornadoes in the South."

"Fatalism, passivity, and perhaps most important, lack of trust in and inattention to society's organized systems of warning constitute a weak defense against the terrible strike of the tornado."

Storm Water Runoff Unusable: Guillou

MSD Lake Water Suit 'Moot'

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The Metropolitan Sanitary District, in filing suit to block the reduction of its allocation of Lake Michigan water, is fighting to keep water that does it no good anyway, according to a spokesman for the state.

John Guillou, chief engineer for the Division of Water Resource management, Department of Transportation, said Friday the reduction of 400 cubic feet per second (cfs) in the allocation to the MSD primarily represents storm water runoff. Guillou said that water does not aid the MSD in diluting sewage in inland waterways, but actually adds to the district's problems.

Guillou made his remarks in response to a lawsuit filed last week by the sanitary district in the Cook County Circuit Court, seeking an injunction and administrative review of the allocations issued July 21 by the Department of Transportation.

The MSD is seeking to block those allocations that would provide a primary source of drinking water for a number of communities in the Chicago metropolitan area, including seven in the west and Northwest suburbs.

AMONG THOSE communities directly affected by the suit are the four constituting the DAMP water commission — Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine — and the three in the Tree Towns water commission — Lombard, Villa Park and Elmhurst. Those two commissions have agreed tentatively, to a joint venture to pipe drinking water from the lake.

The Department of Transportation, given the responsibility of administering the diversion of water from the lake by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1967, announced its allocations July 21.

According to the announced schedule the MSD will be permitted to divert only 1,100 cfs from the lake beginning in 1975, the same year in which the allocations to DAMP, Tree Towns and all other successful applicants can begin diverting water.

The MSD, in its suit, has argued the allocations were made "capriciously and arbitrarily," because they reduce "today the amount of Lake Michigan diversion water allocated to the district in the interest of allocations to others who may not make use of such water for several years."

Guillou, however, contends the drop in the MSD allocation from 1,500 cfs to 1,100 cfs represents an arithmetic reduction only and not a loss of actual usable water.

AS A RESULT of a lawsuit filed by six other lake states, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1967 that the State of Illinois is entitled to divert from the lake a total of 3,200 cfs.

That maximum allowable diversion the court ruled, however, must also include the rainwater that normally would have flowed into the lake had not the MSD reversed the flow of the Chicago River.

Of the maximum permitted for the entire state, the MSD currently diverts 1,500 cfs, Guillou said, including about 400 cfs of storm water that normally would have emptied into the lake.

That stormwater, however, after running through the streets and MSD storm sewers is often of lower quality than the effluent discharged by the MSD's sewage treatment plants, Guillou said. Therefore, he explained, the 400 cfs of water does not aid the sanitary district in diluting the effluent, the primary use the district makes of its water.

Guillou said the water that falls onto the ground belongs to the state and not to the MSD. He said the MSD has no right to that water and they must not count it as part of their diversion. Therefore, by not counting the 400 cfs, the MSD's diversion is lowered, on paper only, to 1,100 cfs.

In other words, to be of any use to the MSD the water must have a dissolved oxygen capability if it is to help stem pollution.

THE ONLY water the MSD currently uses that is of any value in diluting effluent is the 1,100 cfs they actually divert from the lake. Under the state allocation schedule, the district will continue to divert that amount, and therefore lose nothing of value, according to Guillou.

Naturally, the diverted storm water will continue to flow through the MSD system, through the Sanitary and Ship Canal and the Des Plaines River to Joliet and eventually to New Orleans.

Guillou said the MSD has filed the suit despite the possibility that the Department of Transportation could help the district add oxygen to the water — making it useful for dilution purposes. Guillou said in that way, the MSD would still make full use of the water, but it would not be counted in the MSD's allocation.

The chief engineer said still more water will be available to the district in the near future which would again be useful for dilution purposes but would not be included in the MSD allocation.

Guillou said that currently several units along the lake's north shore take water from the lake, but put it back in such a highly treated form that it does not constitute a diversion. Within the next few years, he said that water will be discharged into the North Shore Channel and, because it will be highly treated, will serve to dilute the effluent when it flows into the MSD system.

GUILLLOU SAID the MSD must make better use of its water supply and find better ways to deal with its pollution problem. He said other sanitary districts are being faced with stiff requirements by environmental control boards — problems which they must solve by means other than simply diluting the effluent with large amounts of water.

"There is no question of the final outcome of the suit," Guillou said, adding it appears the MSD may be trying to delay the time scheduled for them to meet state pollution standards.

Guillou said the mere filing of the suit will cause serious delays in the attempts of DAMP and Tree Towns to obtain water from the lake. "With the allocations the subject of pending litigation," he said, "DAMP and Tree Towns will be unable to sell bonds to finance the project."

He noted the lawsuit could continue for a couple of years before a decision is made. He said, however, the possibility the controversy could be settled between the MSD and the state outside the courtroom should not be discounted.

Guillou also took exception to an MSD contention, included in the suit, that the Department of Transportation failed to hold public hearings on the allocations, as required by the high court.

"We held eight hearings on the allocations," Guillou said. "Adn the last one was held in the board room of the Metropolitan Sanitary District."

Group Criticizes Probation System

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The probation system used in Cook County and throughout the State of Illinois often puts dangerous criminals onto the streets while keeping offenders who would be "good risks" behind bars, a private association charged yesterday.

The John Howard Association, a not-for-profit organization that focuses on crime and delinquency prevention, has proposed increasing the use of probation instead of going ahead with a state proposal to build four new prisons.

Only 40 per cent of the offenders receive probation in Illinois, as compared with 80 per cent in California and 90 per cent in Wisconsin, the association pointed out.

JOSEPH R. ROWAN, executive director of the association, said yesterday that states such as Wisconsin and California, which make greater use of probation, have a slower yearly increase in their crime rates than Illinois.

Rowan told reporters at a press conference that an increase in the number of persons who will receive probation rather than a jail sentence will not endanger the public because the new system would include more qualified probation officers and a better system of determining which lawbreakers are to be on probation.

The association is calling for a statewide probation program instead of new prisons.

The association's recommendations are included in a lengthy study of probation practices throughout the state.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS include having the administrative office of the Illinois courts administer a statewide probation system through the various chief judges.

The association says the system should be financed by the state rather than local counties. Part of the program should include establishing standards regarding personnel selection, training and practices. The association also calls for a compulsory system of gathering statistics so that a statewide probation plan can be developed.

To avoid a situation similar to one in California where new prison facilities stand empty, the association proposed that the four new prisons planned by the Illinois Department of Corrections not be built at this time and that no new prisons be built until the probation system can be implemented and a long-range plan developed.

THE ASSOCIATION'S study of probation practices in Illinois reveals: —It costs $4,000 a year to incarcerate a lawbreaker but only $500 yearly if he is on a well-supervised probation.

—Probation officers in the state vary greatly in age, salary and education. They range from 21 to 85 years old, from a second-grade education to one or more graduate degrees, and are paid from $175 a month to $11,500 a year.

—There are no counties in the state with a merit civil service system in their probation departments.

—The average probation officer in the state handles 110 cases at a time while optimum conditions recommended by national agencies are a ratio of one probation officer to every 30 to 50 persons on probation.

—The present prison population of 7,000 inmates can be reduced by nearly one half with the plan proposed by the association for improved probation services.

—There is no state system of probation in Illinois with the result that some counties have individual systems with either combined or separate juvenile or adult systems. There also are systems within the districts of the circuit courts and within the individual circuits.

ACCORDING TO THE association a good probation system would include careful selection of the offenders who will be given probation and of the probation officers; training, staff supervision and a minimum education level for probation officers, and the use of volunteers to augment the professionals.

The association says its program will save taxpayers money in the long run and will keep youthful offenders from getting a "master's degree" in criminal techniques while being held in jail.

If the organization is not successful in getting backing of its proposals by state and county officials it says it will take the proposal to voters in the form of a referendum.

Loud Commercials

by Ed Landwehr

If you've been blasted off your easy chair during the sudden blared commercial break on TV or radio, you're not the first one to be annoyed. I guess the advertisers want you to hear their message even if you've gone to the smallest room in the house. The Federal Communication Commission has received many complaints about this, but the only results have been denials. It seems that measuring the loudness of commercials in relation to the regular program would be a simple process which the FCC could handle.

We want to make it loud and clear at Landwehr's Home Appliances, too, that we give satisfying service in any electronic problems — TV, radio, stereo and any appliance that has sound going through it. Just phone 255-0700.

And when you're near 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, stop in and browse through our fine displays of television and radio sets. We've many stereos, too.

Penal Group Hits Probation System

Cook County has the worst probation system of any county in the state on the basis of its size and the number of law breakers, a spokesman for the John Howard Association said yesterday.

The association, a non-profit agency advocating an increase in the use of probation rather than imprisonment, said the county needs a drastic change in its probation system.

In a special report on Cook County, the organization said the county should model its adult probation department after its own juvenile and youth court probation departments by setting a minimum of a bachelors degree as a requirement in hiring probation officers.

The criticism of the county came in a follow-up of a 1970 study done on the Cook County Adult Probation Department. The association said the department deserves credit for improving its training for probation officers and for decentralizing operations to make it easier for offenders on probation to report to their probation officers.

HOWEVER, the major, crucial factors — personnel selection and removal from politics, supervision of both clients and probation staff and adequacy of the present investigation process in both quality and quantity remain in relatively the same state," since the 1970 study, the report stated.

Pointing to an unofficial requirement that all probation officers working with adults must now be either a precinct captain or a precinct worker, Joseph R. Rowan, association director, said Cook County could "start tomorrow" to implement a new probation system if it would merely hire probation officers for the adult division on a non-political basis.

Contract 'Collision' Averted—For Now

by WANDALYN RICE

Things have been looking bad in High School Dist. 211 for several weeks now.

The school board and teachers in that district have been on an apparent collision course in their negotiations of the 1972-73 teachers contract. For almost six months they have been bargaining and yet, when school started, the two sides had not agreed on anything.

The collision has been averted for the time being because the board Monday night said it was reevaluating its position in the talks and postponed the next meeting until Sept. 5.

It's possible that when the board returns to the table after the reevaluation the contract dispute will be settled quickly. It's also possible that the collision course will be resumed.

EITHER WAY, it seems appropriate to take advantage of the present lull to figure out what has been going on in the district for the past half-year.

From the beginning of the contract talks in February, the main sticking point has been the teachers' desire to negotiate on "working conditions." In the past the board has only agreed to talk about salaries and fringe benefits, but the teachers this year wanted contract guarantees on class size, teacher workloads and teacher evaluation, among other things.

In addition, each side originally presented a tentative salary proposal. The teachers asked for a modest ($150) increase in the base pay, but much larger increases for experienced teachers. In addition, they wanted to change the salary schedule to give more credit to teachers with additional education.

The board, on the other hand, wanted to freeze the base pay for teachers and implement a merit pay system for experienced teachers.

The two sides have changed their positions a little during the succeeding bargaining. The board recently dropped its proposal for merit pay, for example, and offered to raise the base and as a result the whole scale by $150.

BUT THE TALKS have remained deadlocked, mainly on the issue of whether to negotiate working conditions. The board has offered to form committees with the teachers association to study questions of class size and other working conditions, but will not put guarantees in the contract.

Last week 235 of the 380 teachers who belong to the Education Association supported their leaders. They didn't vote to go on strike, but the mood of the crowd made it clear they might, if the board makes them mad enough. Monday the board said it was "reevaluating" its bargaining position.

Those are the bare facts, and I'm sure most observers who are following the story have figured out there must be more to the dispute than those facts.

And there is. The basic foundation of the dispute involves two philosophies about schools, one held by the board and the other by the teachers.

The board's philosophy usually is stated in the terms "the board should run the school — not the teachers."

In the past school boards have had virtually dictatorial power over the schools and it wasn't until the late 1960s that they began bargaining with teachers at all. Over the years the philosophy developed that the board must not give up its absolute prerogatives because it was the only group responsible to the taxpayers — who own the schools.

HOWEVER, after years of "suffering" under what they considered the heavy hand of school boards that know nothing about education, teachers unions have developed the philosophy that they must obtain guarantees from school boards in contracts or the boards will run roughshod over professional educators — who are supposed to be the experts.

Those two views are, obviously, in conflict. Any contract guarantee on working conditions (otherwise known as "issues affecting the quality of education") is interpreted by board members as an attempted power grab by the teachers. Any refusal on the part of the board to negotiate working conditions is interpreted by the teachers as a callous disregard for the views of professional educators.

The Dist. 211 board and teachers association are very clear examples of groups holding these philosophical positions. And deeply held philosophical positions are usually the hardest to change.

A fair settlement at this point probably will not mean a clear-cut victory for either philosophy, but, with 235 teachers agreed they want some working conditions in the contract, it looks as though the board's reassessment is well timed.

HOPEFULLY when the two sides return to the table, they can try to put aside their philosophical differences and see where they can get together. The board, after all, isn't really fighting the last great battle for board control of schools — the teachers are asking for a legally guaranteed voice in decisions, not all the power.

And at the same time, despite what the teachers' leaders may sometimes be tempted to imagine, the board is not really the ultimate example of evil and ignorant power.

If both sides cannot somehow stop fighting these great philosophical battles, things could get bloody in Dist. 211.

And no one ever really wins a bitter strike — anymore than anyone wins a nuclear war.

Student Orientation Expanded At St. Viator

Student orientation at St. Viator High School has been expanded to two weeks this year.

The orientation program, which began Monday, follows a month-long teachers' workshop at the school. Believing that "students should be exposed to the flavor of the workshop in all its dimensions," staff members will share many of the past month's discussions with their pupils.

The Rev. Patrick Render, C.S.V., associate principal at St. Viator, said the themes for the orientation period are "sharing with students the philosophy, theory and practice of the new programs which will begin at St. Viator this fall and improving faculty-student and inter-student relationships throughout the school."

St. Viator, an Arlington Heights school which serves 1,100 boys living throughout the Northwest suburbs, will offer four student programs next year. Pupils may enroll in social studies, science, humanities or a traditional program of study.

DURING ORIENTATION students and teachers will meet by program area. Students will also take tests which will determine their interests, attitudes and achievements, and all pupils will be personally interviewed during the two-week period.

Next week film presentations and library tours are scheduled, and new "student facilitators" will be trained. The pupils who serve as facilitators will sometimes be auxiliary teachers and will also help teachers lead discussions with other pupils on many subjects. Students will also pay tuition and fees during the second week of the orientation period.

The orientation schedule also provides one free day for students so that teachers may meet for team planning and discussions with administrators.

Getting Into Med School Isn't Impossible—Yet

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Getting into medical school today isn't as difficult as putting a camel through the eye of a needle — but just you wait.

Despite the fact that the number of seats in medical schools have gone up by one-third since 1968, the rise in quantity and quality of applicants has rendered the growth inadequate. In 1966, before the expansion, there were 2.0 applicants per seat. There were 2.6 applicants for every one of the 13,500 freshmen medical seats to be filled this fall.

The situation adds up to "a raw deal for applicants," says Samuel Z. Goldhaber in a report in Science, journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He happens to be one of the lucky applicants and will fill a seat at Harvard Medical School.

SOME INVOLVED with the admissions procedure on occasion suggest a lottery.

New Harper Program Coordinator Named

A Chicago executive, Guido James Norini, has been named coordinator of a new career program in air conditioning and refrigeration to be offered this fall at Harper College, Palatine.

An instructor for 16 years, Norini was chairman of the refrigeration department at Greer Technical Institute in Chicago. He also taught adult education classes in air conditioning at Prosser Vocational School, Chicago, and at East Leyden High School, Franklin Park.

Norini is owner of Accutemp, a refrigeration, heating and air conditioning company in Chicago, and also does consulting work for various firms including the Chicago-based Scientific Heating and Air Conditioning Co. He received his education at Northwestern University, Chicago Teacher's College and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

GOP Failed To Open Door

Following the lead of President Nixon, Republicans have taken to describing the GOP as the "Party of the Open Door."

Action taken by the party's national convention in Miami Beach, however, indicates that the label "Party of the Door Ajar" would be more apt.

The delegates to the national convention, in their euphoria of the prospect of another four, and perhaps 12, years of Republican power, gave little support to those who sought to establish rules for widening participation in the conventions of the future.

They did include in their platform an admonition to state organizations to "encourage" greater participation in the selection of delegates by women, young people and minority groups. But they steadfastly avoided establishing any more stringent instructions to accomplish this goal, or outlining any penalties for failure to do so.

Even Sen. Charles H. Percy and others who supported his proposals for an enlarged convention were opposed to the establishment of quotas for minority groups in state delegations, and we share that opposition.

Republicans looked on in distaste at the attempts of the Democratic Party to open up its convention through what resulted in de facto quotas (as Rep. Philip M. Crane said the Percy plan would do) and in the resulting assortment of delegate challenges which resulted.

They may or may not have been directly influenced by the Democrats' action, but they clearly wanted no such disputes in their own convention.

In any case, the Republicans approved a plan which does nothing to award the larger states a more proportionate share of the nominating delegates and perpetuates the greater share of the smaller states.

Had Percy's proposal, or a similar plan, been adopted, the large industrial states would have gained a greater share of representation, and it seems not unreasonable to think that simply enlarging those delegations — where the greater numbers of young people and minority groups reside — the party might have achieved greater balance in its delegations.

The delegate-selection process of the GOP contributes little to its professed goal of "opening the door" of the party, which Percy and others feel is vital if it is not to remain the minority party.

While the party made no firm rule that candidates for delegates must be selected by public processes, or that equal representation must be accorded to minorities, it also did nothing to prevent that at the state level.

It is our hope that Illinois Republicans will take seriously their slogan and take steps to truly open the door to all those who seek a voice in the Grand Old Party.

The Public's Issues

'All Those Republicans Look Alike'

(Ed. Note: At the conclusion of the Democratic National Convention in July, the Herald had a prominent area Republican — Wheeling Twp. GOP Committeeman Richard Cowen — give his reaction to the proceedings in a Public's Issues column. Now, with the Republican Convention history, we reverse the situation and present a prominent Democrat's view of what the GOP did at Miami Beach. Our commentator is Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, state representative from the 3rd District.)

by EUGENIA S. CHAPMAN
I watched the Republican convention. It was a great prime time show. In fact, you might have called it "All in the Family." Just like kisser cousins, Republican delegates tend to look alike when they're on TV.

Everything was nice and organized, just the way you tidy up the parlor for a family reunion. Like most viewers, I think I got the impression that the Republican image was scrubbed, well-fed, and upper-class. There were a few young people thrown in — possibly because it's fashionable these days. There were, I was happy to note, more women than I've previously seen at a Republican convention.

The homogenous cast would have saddened the heart of an Ivy League admissions official. And they played their roles well.

Traditionally, political conventions were held for the purpose of nominating a president and vice president, and for working out a party platform.

Judged by those standards, both the Republican and Democratic conventions were successful.

Only we did ours differently. As a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, I was pleased that our caucuses were open to public and press alike. When we listened to candidates and had a chance to question them, anyone who wanted to attend was welcome.

Our platform sessions, too, were open. We talked about things that were important to people — like welfare, like health, like abortions. And if we did argue and discuss planks till early in the morning, it was because we tried to listen to people and to write a platform that really said something.

We tried to pull apart the bland, smooth vanilla ice cream statements into words that meant something specific rather than a homogenized promise. We didn't care if we ran past prime time, because we believed it was more important to give minority reports and varying points of view a chance to be heard.

Maybe it took us longer to get our business done because there were so many first-time delegates. I remember the old, retired union official, the young people in their blue jeans and sandals, the housewives, the blacks and Chicanos — all working with as much earnestness as the old pros.

Whatever our image may have been to television viewers, we were a working convention.

The Republican convention, on the other hand, was organized. That was obvious. The closed caucuses, the orange blazers of the Illinois delegation, the party unity seemed carefully planned to make the best use of TV exposure.

State and local officials were carefully and lengthily introduced. (Maybe that's more helpful to grass roots campaigning than having a real discussion of issues.)

But party reform? Not till after the 1976 convention, apparently. If then.

Republican delegates who wanted to open up their party, to give big-state voters the representation they have truly deserved for so long, lost their fight. The controversy over rules for electing 1976 delegates, in fact, might be thought of as the high point of the 1972 convention.

I guess I'm not in step with the Republican national convention.

I had the old-fashioned idea that delegates should be attending conventions, rather than performances, that they should be struggling with issues and problems of America. I think a convention should be a mirror of the country's concerns and aspirations... that it should be a people convention.

Don't you?

Word-A-Day

The Campaign Begins

The battle lines are drawn. The first hurrahs still echo. The contest now begins.

For the first time in many a presidential campaign, Americans seem to be offered a clear choice between candidates and issues, more so even than in 1964 when fear of Barry Goldwater's hard-line approach to Vietnam overshadowed everything else.

This campaign, it is not that the Republicans are doing the right things the wrong way, but say the Democrats, they are doing the wrong things — period.

Rather than make the standard political claim that he can do anything his opponent can do, only better, George McGovern promises to stop doing almost everything Richard Nixon has been doing and to start doing what, according to McGovern, urgently needs to be done — end the Vietnam war, slash defense spending, redirect the nation's energies to its domestic problems and, above all, return America to its old values of goodness and decency.

For their part, the Republicans pose the question, best stated in Vice President Agnew's nomination acceptance speech: Do you want to go on achieving steady, sober progress under the sound and tested leadership of Richard Nixon (YES!!) or do you want the "piecemeal, inconsistent and illusory" policies of George McGovern (NO!!)?

One thing is certain. The Republicans are not going to repeat the mistake of 1948 when, confident of victory and reassured by all the polls, Thomas E. Dewey acted as if his opponent, Harry S. Truman, did not even exist.

This year, both Nixon and McGovern are running against each other in no uncertain terms. Hard punches have already been thrown by both, and by their running mates, and it will be surprising if some don't land below the belt as the campaign heats up.

If there is anything approaching a slogan in a campaign notably devoid of New Deals or New Frontiers, it is President Nixon's promise of "a generation of peace," of full employment without either war or inflation — if only he is permitted to complete the work he has started.

The question is whether the President's accomplishments in the field of foreign affairs, which have already secured him an enduring niche in history, can balance his less-than-impressive achievements in the economic sphere.

The 1972 election campaign is characterized by an unusual mixture of idealism and bread-and-butter concerns, of appeals here to the good will and good sense of the American people and blatant exploitation there of their fears and prejudices.

In this, it is, of course, no different from any other campaign in history. It is just that emotions are heightened in 1972, and the differences between the parties and candidates, which have sometimes been blurred in the past, seem clearer.

It is as if Americans sense that much more will be decided on Nov. 7 than which man occupies the White House for the next four years, that out of the contest will emerge a national philosophy and national life style that will dominate the next decade, at least.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

'Airport Poses A Threat'

Pat Gerlach, a reporter with the Schaumburg Herald, wrote a very interesting article on Meigs field and the possibility Schaumburg Airport may become a carbon copy. But for some reason, with all the information about Meigs Field at her disposal, where was the fact that 300-400 planes fly in and out of Meigs field every 24 hours. Wouldn't the people of Schaumburg be interested?

In Mrs. Gerlach's recent series on Schaumburg Airport, noise and air pollution were mentioned in parentheses! She did a tremendous amount of research into the economic benefits of an expanded airport, many, many quotes from officials who supported this general theme of her series, and a "Gee, isn't money great," journalistic attitude.

While citizens may be impressed with the revenue coming from airport expansion, they more likely are more concerned with their own revenue or loss of it due to airport expansion. In a recent Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission study on O'Hare Airport noise, it states, "Although no cause-effect relationship could be verified, the available data clearly indicates higher turnover, higher vacancy rates, and lower selling prices for homes in noise-impacted areas." No one wants to live under jet noise, and property values in Schaumburg will go down if a Meigs Field-type airport becomes a reality.

Where is Mrs. Gerlach's concern over the environmental effects of this possible expansion? Mrs. Gerlach is certainly objective to a fault in this department, since she ignores the whole issue, except to take potshots at people who are not ignoring the issue!

There is much information available

Meat Cutter: 'Pay Too Low'

I am a meat cutter and would like to voice my views on the upcoming contract and night work.

Your editorial running down the meat cutter is the chain store view and not the true version. The chain stores have been offered night work and it was turned down because of premium pay.

Do the newspapers back the chains because they are the champions of the consumer? They are because they have managed to keep the meat cutter salary down so low that he is the poorest paid skilled craftsman in the country today.

Every contract year the chains make their offer and say that's all we can give because the consumer will not pay higher prices for their meat. The meat men have gone along with this excuse and have never raised their voices in strike against the chains or the consumer.

Night work demands premium pay in every line of work. Why should the meat men work nights without? Every item we buy today includes in its price premium pay for night work. Why not meat? All we hear is the consumer won't stand for this or that. Just who is the consumer who demands so much from the meat cutter?

Here is a list of the consumer: office worker, hours 35-40 per week, no Saturday or Sunday work; all the trade workers, 40 hour week, no Saturday or Sunday work; warehouse workers, 40 hour week, no Saturday or Sunday work. All the above which are the bulk of working people will not work nights, Saturday or Sunday without premium pay. Who are they to demand that meat cutters should? Most of the above have a two-day weekend. Not the meat cutter.

The meat cutter has done his share in making this country a better place to live but he won't do what no one else will do, work night or Sunday without premium pay.

She Wants Later Hours At Counter

There's little I can add to your August 7 editorial on meat sales other than "that's exactly the way I feel, too!"

My husband and I both work, so Saturday is the only time I can buy fresh meat. Saturday is also the only time I can go and do a lot of other things, so often it is not convenient to limit meat shopping to just that one day. Also, Saturday is always the most crowded and hectic day of the week in the food stores; I don't enjoy having to battle the meat counter mob scenes I usually encounter. I really would like the evening hours.

Dog Was Slighted

As one of the winners in the recent Dog Show at Community Park in Palatine, I was very disappointed to see that we were left out of your article completely. My dog won a first place in the best costumed (only third was mentioned), a third in largest dog (only first and second were mentioned) and a third in best-of-show (only first and second again).

Since you mentioned third place in the categories, why not these two categories, also? We were very proud of our dog's achievements and were more than disappointed at the Herald's coverage.

EDITORIAL: The actions of young people, in and out of the Republican National Convention.

Business Today

by LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The executive job market picked up sharply in the second quarter this year, two top recruiting firms report.

The pickup is so definite that executives are becoming much less security conscious and making changes again from choice rather than necessity, James R. Clovis of Handy Associates of New York told the magazine Dun's Review.

Lester Korn of Korn-Ferry International of Los Angeles agreed. Korn told United Press International that there also is a noticeable trend among confident executives to shorten job life spans. Unless he can see his way clear to the top in a company, a first-rate modern executive is loathe to spend more than 10 years with one firm, Korn said. Then he wants a change partly as a means of self-renewal. He may even decide to get completely out of business for a while, into government service, a university or something else where profit is not the prime motive.

KORN ALSO SAID there is now a strong demand for general executives. During the 1970-71 recession the demand was almost exclusively for specialists.

Korn interpreted the demand for general executives to mean top management now believes the recovery in recent months will last, and it's time for business to consolidate their positions and grow again.

This belief is reinforced, he said, by the fact that there also is for the first time in several years more demand for personnel executives to expand employment.

Next to general executives, the demand is for finance and marketing and sales people, Korn said. There were twice as many openings in these fields in the second quarter as in production and engineering. The demand for new chief executives also was brisk in the second quarter.

BY INDUSTRIES, the biggest demand for executives was in the real estate and construction groups, twice as many as in the next group, financial service companies or the conglomerates. Consumer products, electronics, miscellaneous manufacturing and government services lagged far behind. Retail merchandising, entertainment and publishing and broadcasting and advertising and public relations industries continued, in Korn's word, to be almost disaster areas for executive job hunters.

Korn said the second quarter shows a drastic geographical reversal in executive demand from the first quarter. Incidentally, Korn used for his surveys the quarters ended April 30 and July 31 instead of the calendar quarters.

Home Prices Going Only One Way: Up, Up, Up

by CARLTON SMITH

All you nice, innocent people who have been saving your money for the purchase of a modestly-priced house are advised to go on dreaming. If you should wake up you'd find the reality is more like a nightmare.

In the home-building industry the low-cost house virtually has disappeared from the market.

It's next to impossible to find anything in the new-home market today for less than $15,000. The median sales price of new homes last year was $25,000, the United States Savings and Loan League reports in its 1972 Fact Book.

Last year you could find only about three houses in a hundred selling for less than $15,000. Seven years ago a fourth of all the new homes built were priced under that figure. The word that comes to mind is "inflation."

LOOK WHAT'S happened to the median price — the figure right in the middle, with half the houses selling for more and half for less. Today, $25,000. In 1963, the median price was $18,000.

That's an increase of roughly 40 per cent. That may sound like the result of rampant inflation. Actually it's the result of only about a 4 per cent a year inflation — just a little more than we have currently, when we're told that the managers of our economy are getting things cooled off nicely.

What turns a "moderate" inflationary rate into runaway inflation is that it compounds itself every year. A rate of around 4 1/8 per cent a year is sufficient to raise the price of houses 40 per cent in eight years — which then becomes an average of 5 per cent a year.

Inflation — plus a couple of other factors — also is pushing the upper half of home prices — those over $25,000 — into a more sharply upward-tilted scale.

Last year, one home in five sold for $35,000 or more. Seven years earlier, a house carrying that price tag was a luxury home, affordable by only a few. Six per cent of the houses sold in 1964, says the Fact Book, were in that price range.

WELL, YOU SAY, inflation, yes — but personal income has increased, too.

The fact remains that the cost of traditional housing evidently has priced large numbers of American families out of that market. For nearly a third of all those buying single-family units in 1971, the Fact Book reports, couldn't afford what our parents called houses. Thirty per cent of them bought mobile homes.

We are told that if those in authority can get inflation down to around 3 1/2 per cent a year, they are satisfied that everything will be all right again.

Better than 6 per cent it certainly is — but don't let anyone sell you the idea that 3 1/2 per cent is not inflation. At that rate, last year's median-priced $25,000 house would be selling, seven years from now, for $32,920.

Workshop To Interpret Occupational Safety Act

A safety and health compliance workshop will be sponsored by Oakton Community College tomorrow. It will be held at the Pyrenees Restaurant in Skokie from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Assistance in developing an effective program as required under the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 will be provided at the workshop. The act empowers the U.S. Department of Labor to enforce these standards through official inspections. Citations that carry a civil penalty are issued for violations of the standards.

Topics to be discussed at the workshop will include the basic elements of a safety program, electrical safety, machine guarding and industrial health programs.

An explanation of regulations will be followed by a description of U.S. Department of Labor inspection procedures, record keeping and sources of technical and financial assistance.

PAUL GILSON, vice chairman of the Oakton Community College board of trustees, is among the session leaders. He also is chief of compliance training at the OSHA training institute in Rosemont.

Other session leaders will include: Edwin Alpaugh of International Harvester Co.; Robert Faulkner of Bussman Manufacturing, a division of the McGraw Edison Corp.; Ted Gadowski, safety education coordinator for the Illinois Department of Labor; Michael Krikorian of the Brunswick Corp.; William Larson of Argonne National Laboratories; Gerald Maatman of National Loss Control Service, and Alan Reed of Daniel Woodhead Corp.

The program will be presented in cooperation with the Skokie Valley Industrial Association, the Maine-Oakton Niles Adult and Continuing Education Program, the American Society of Safety Engineers (Chicago section) and the Northwest Industrial Council.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "With fundamentals remaining strong on balance, the stock market should probe higher levels before the November election," Spear & Staff reports. It adds that the battle between the bulls and the bears should end in a slim victory for the bulls. It advises the investor to be "selective," since the public has not fully entered the market.

The market was influenced last week by the rise in the prime interest rate and the inability of the Dow Jones industrial average to move through the 970-975 resistance area, E. F. Hutton notes. The decline on Thursday was important, because it carried a lot of volume going down, it adds. For the short run the market is heading downward, Hutton suggests.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says the market "continues to come up roses." It has been able to absorb bad news without sliding too far, the Institute says, and manages to keep advancing. "With the market flashing a bright green light, an aggressive approach is called for," it adds.

S&Ls Back $250 Billion Ceiling

A $250 billion ceiling on federal expenditures for the current fiscal year is supported by the Executive Committee of the United States Savings and Loan League.

In a statement issued from the League's headquarters in Chicago, the executive committee said, "Since last summer there has been progress in the revival of business, a drop in the rate of unemployment and, of greatest importance, some signs of an abatement in inflation in consumer prices. The savings and loan institutions of the United States have consistently contended that a return to reasonable price stability was essential to the solution of our economic problems at home and improvement of our competitive position in International trade.

"While it may be appropriate for heavy government spending to help build an economic recovery, there are substantial risks in excessive expenditures once the recovery is under way. The risks are a rekindling of inflation and inflation psychology, and the destruction of the gains made in the past year," the statement continued.

"The federal government ended its most recent fiscal year with a budget deficit of $23 billion. In its midyear budget review, the Administration estimated that for the current fiscal year expenditures will approximate $250 billion and that the estimated deficit will be $27 billion. There have been fears expressed that because of additional expenditures the deficit might run as high as $40 billion.

"A deficit of this dimension would be unnecessarily and dangerously stimulative and would have an adverse practical and psychological effect on the economy. We support, therefore, the President's request for a $250 billion ceiling on federal expenditures."

Don't take it on faith.

When Rev. Gordon Johnson decided to build a new church, he had to sell his old one.

So it was no miracle that he came to Baird & Warner, and we helped him.

At Baird & Warner, we're 28 offices and over 200 full-time salespeople strong.

And to help our people be extra effective, we advertise on an epic scale. In seven day metro newspapers. Over 100 community papers. Time magazine. O'Hare dioramas. Outdoor billboards.

We also have a free executive relocation program (called RESET) for companies transferring employees to and from the Chicago area.

So if the prospect of buying or selling a home is disrupting your peace of mind, call in Baird & Warner.

And be saved.

Rent Board Guidelines

Rent Reductions Are Seen For Some

Tenants who signed leases between Aug. 15 and Dec. 28 last year should in most cases receive rent reductions when they sign their new leases, the Rent Advisory Board said.

The board's message to landlords and tenants is based on a change in the regulations for computing base rent which became effective last December 29.

This change established as the base rent for a unit May 15, 1971, rent plus the average per cent increase of other units in the same building or complex just prior to the freeze. This replaced an earlier rule which was based on the highest rent charged for a similar unit prior to the freeze.

Leases signed between Aug. 15 and Dec. 28, 1971, received increases under the original rule, which in most cases permitted higher increases than under current regulations.

Rent Advisory Board Chairman Thomas B. Curtis, in issuing the reminder, said: "The original rule was the same used for setting base prices for other goods and commodities within the economy. However, because of the few leases signed during the base period, the rule in some instances allowed excessive rent increases."

As these leases now expire, landlords are required to compute base rent using the new regulations, substituting the average increase for the highest rent charged, which in most cases will mean a reduction.

All tenants whose one year leases expire between August 15 and December 28, 1972, should be notified in writing by their landlord of their base rent as computed under the regulations now in force.

"If a landlord fails to notify a tenant of his base rent," said Curtis, "he is in violation of the rent stabilization regulations. Tenants should request proper notification."

If a landlord refuses to notify, a tenant may file a complaint with his local Internal Revenue Service Office.

Kingman Returns To Area, Visits 'New Look' Diamond

Dave Kingman came home last weekend.

Not just to Wrigley Field with the San Francisco Giants. Not just to Mount Prospect. He came home to the baseball field where it all began for the big third baseman, the varsity baseball field at Prospect High School, to help the Prospect Knights Booster's Club dedicate the two new dugouts built by the Boosters for Prospect.

On hand with Dave for the almost rain postponed event were Alvin Kulieke, Prospect's principal; George Gattas, Athletic Director; Jerry Shutt, president of the Mt. Prospect Lion's Club; and Elmer Blasco, project director for this Knights Boosters Club special project.

And what Dave saw when he drove up brought a smile to the face of Prospect's proudest baseball product.

"Man," he commented, "my alma mater has really gone big-league. If these don't instill some pride into the ball clubs coming up, I'll be sadly disappointed. These should be worth at least a conference championship."

The dugouts, now being painted in Prospect's twin-blues, were expected to be completed by the time the Giants arrived in town on August 26, but are now in the final stages of completion with deliveries of materials, and weather, contributing to the delay in completion.

"We wanted to see them completed by the time Dave made his last trip into Chicago this season," said Elmer Blasco, representing the Knights Booster's Club, "but we just couldn't make it. We still have the drinking fountains to install, the front railings to put in place, and the signs to paint for both dugouts."

Mr. Kulieke, in acknowledging the near-completion of the Booster's project, paid high praise to the Prospect Knights Boosters for this ambitious project.

"There are none better in the state," he observed. "Neither dugouts or Boosters."

The Booster project began early this year when Booster President George R. Busse and his board decided upon a new program of one special project a year for the Prospect athletic program and the dugouts were it.

Blasco, Booster treasurer and coordinator of the project, outlined the history of the dugouts.

"It all began with a set of blueprints and engineering plans," he observed. "These were put together by Bob McBride, the father of one of our gymnasts. With these in hand, George Busse presented our request for funds to the Mount Prospect Lions Club and they most generously agreed to fund the project with a cash grant."

"From then on the entire project began to snowball and we were on our way," he continued. "Bob Jackson and the Mount Prospect Park District contributed their equipment and Kenny Goodman to do the excavations and trenching. With the money from the Lions we paid for the concrete and block work."

"And then the real heart-warming part of the project took place. Kurt Bostrom contributed the steel posts and the sheet metal for the roof. The Prospect Varsity club donated the two drinking fountains. Victor Rose, Sr. came over and put on the roofs. John Bruner helped lay concrete block. Bill Selep donated the seat brackets. And Bill Smith, Jack Loos, Bob Jennings pitched in with help on the roofs and the painting. Even Roger Spielman helped mix mortar. And George L. Busse is contributing the permanent plaque that will acknowledge all of the contributions made to this project."

"A lot of people have really helped put these things together," Blasco concluded, "and even though they're not quite done, the Booster Club would like to thank them all. But most of all, the Lions Club, without whose original funding we could never have made it."

Gattas, Prospect's athletic director, in accepting the dugouts on behalf of Prospect's athletic program, thanked Shutt and the Lions Club for providing the funds for the project and concluded the brief ceremony by saying, "Jerry, if this contribution of yours encourages more boys to play baseball, and produces more Kingmans, and Lundstedts, you'll have spent your money wisely."

Yes, Dave Kingman came home to Prospect last Saturday, and if the Prospect Knights Booster's Club has its way, there will be more Kingmans and Lundstedts coming out of their dugouts in the years to come to win conference championships... and maybe more.

PROSPECT PRODUCT. San Francisco Giants' slugger Dave Kingman, left, a standout in his prep days at Prospect High, was on hand Saturday morning as the new dugouts were dedicated on the school diamond. Joining Kingman were (from left) Alvin Kulieke, Prospect Principal; Elmer Blasco, project director for the Knights Booster Club special project; George Gattas, athletic director; and Jerry Shutt, president of the Mount Prospect Lions Club.

There's A Mortal Side To Baseball's Immortals

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Early Wynn and Sandy Koufax, two of the most recent inductees into baseball's Hall of Fame, should feel as much at home in Cooperstown as they did on the pitching mound. They join the greatest, most immortal bunch of overrated bums that ever tripped over a base.

Baseball fans know that the right-handed Wynn is one of only 11 men to ever win 300 or more games. On the other hand — and sometimes you wonder if he wasn't pitching with the other hand — Wynn holds the major league record for most walks in a lifetime, 1,775, and most home runs given up in the American League, 335.

So he stumbles into the so-called hallowed halls alongside such an illustrious loser as Cy Young, who dropped more games, 315, than anyone in history. Also, no one ever gave up more career hits than that same Denton True (Cy) Young. He allowed 7,078 hits in his 23-season career. You ask why there were so many 300 hitters in the early years?

Young spread out his hits in both major leagues, and so was gracious enough to leave the field open to fellow Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland who hold the record for most hits allowed in a league for a career. Johnson's 4,920 tops the American, and Cleveland's 4,868 heads N. L.

Johnson is guilty of even greater malfeasance. He hit 204 batters, a major league lifetime record for barbarous pitching, is tied for the major league record for most wild pitches lifetime, 156, and holds the record for most wild pitches in an inning, 4. Johnson also is owner of the forlorn record of having lost more games in one league than anyone, 279.

Other mournful marks by Hall of Famers include: most seasons, consecutive, leading major leagues in games lost, two, by Red Ruffing, and most walks in a season, 208 by Bob Feller in 1938.

As we tearfully leave the pitching records of these "baseball heroes" and continue thumbing through Seymour Siwoff's official book of Baseball Records, we begin to mumble in our beards, "Say it ain't so, Joe, and Cy and Ty..."

Yes, even Ty Cobb. We discover that Cobb, as legend has it, was indeed an incomparable base runner. For no one in baseball history has been nailed stealing as many times in one season as Cobb was in 1915 — 38 times.

And the Babe, oh, the Babe. Fans got colds watching the Babe shatter records — such as most seasons leading the major leagues in most strikeouts, four; his lifetime mark of 1,306 strikeouts lasted until a future Hall-of-Famer, the dubious

Mickey Mantle, broke it with 1,710. But neither holds the record for having led one league in strikeouts for most consecutive seasons. Old Double X ("x" for wipe-out) Jimmy Foxx, and of course another "enshrinee" in the Hall of Fame, has it.

Pie Traynor, reputed to be one of the slickest of third basemen, has one of the sickest records: most seasons leading league in most errors, with five, and most lifetime errors for National League third basemen, with 324.

Hon'us Wagner is supposed to rank with Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb. And he certainly does! He holds the record for most errors, career, in the National League, 676. Another Hall of Famer has cornered the market on the American League record for most seasons leading league in most errors — Luke Appling with five calamitous years.

Catcher is the last bastion of hope for the icon-adoring fan. No records of nugatory note are yet owned by Hall of Fame catchers. But wait. There is Ivy Wingo. The legendary, notorious Ivy Wingo. He was a catcher (to use the term loosely) for 17 years with the Cardinals and Reds. Precedent tells us he may yet be voted in. For Wingo holds the catching records for most seasons leading league in most errors, most major league errors lifetime, and most career errors in one league.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

BURT ATKINSON angled the 31-foot Donna G. expertly out of the tight mooring at Waukegan Harbor and pointed it toward Lake Michigan and the sun that hovered just above the horizon. Twin Buick inboards thrust the big boat through the flat, calm bay toward the big fish.

The Donna G. was once no more than a hull, living an ignominious life as a test boat for the Outboard Marine Corporation and being subjected daily to monstrous stress and strain tests. She obviously survived them all and now serves as the smoothest running ship in the fleet of charter boats fishing out of Waukegan.

The pilot house is forward, housing a panel-full of sophistication in electronics and marine engineering. The two most prominent pieces of gear are the Vexilar and the Fish Hawk. The Vexilar is one of the more common aids to navigation and fishing, being used on large as well as small boats. It measures the bottom, much like the regular fish locators, but it also "draws a picture" of the lower structure, providing a print-out that keeps a visual record of the structure and also the fish that you pass over.

The Fish Hawk is the newest addition to the competitive business of fish locating devices. It is a streamlined flasher-type device that has the punch to measure, accurately, the tremendous depths you are likely to find in Lake Michigan. Working with the Vexilar, the Fish Hawk gives a little more precise measurement of depths and is more sensitive to smaller fish than the Vexilar. We'll watch them both.

Forward of the Pilot House is the lower deck area that is equipped with a couple of bunks and a head. The rest of the boat is all open area, built for roomy comfort as fishermen keep an eye on the rods that we will rig for trolling.

And do we rig rods on the Donna G? Beginning at the starboard gunwale (someone told me not to call it "the right side of the boat") we will rig a "Sideboard." This is an outfit that is a big improvement on regular outriggers. Instead of the long outrigger rod, we run the sideboard out on a fixed line. It will ride, amazingly, at exactly the angle we set it, regardless of what the boat is doing. If the boat turns a full 90 degrees, the sideboard will maintain its angle and distance from the boat. The line from the first rod is snapped into a quick-release device at the rear of the board. When a fish hits it, the line pulls free and you fight the fish without the bother of the sideboard or weights.

After the sideboard rod, we will rig down-rigger lines, using cannonball weights running one to two pounds. Attached to wire line that unreels from electric-powered reels, the cannonballs are lowered, with fishing line attached to any depth we want to fish. The rod handle is set in the rod holders that line the edge of the boat all the way around to the port side. As with the sideboards, the lines on the cannonball downriggers are also equipped with releases so that should a fish hit the lure that travels anywhere from four to seven feet behind the weight, it will snap free of the cannonball and we can play the fish on a free line.

Alternating between the deep-running downriggers are lines using Pink Lady and Deep Six planing devices that run a lure at shallower depths than the heavy cannonballs. Also we'll mix in a couple of lines that have only about 3 ounces weight that will run at a mere 16 or 18 feet.

There are 11 lines out, some of them using herring dodgers ahead of the lure they trail, some with the bright, chromed flasher attracters, some with only the lure. We are trailing Spoonplugs, Tadpoles, Suttons, Flutter Spoons, Manistee Wobblers, jointed Rebels, and a smallish lure with a plastic skirt and a jointed hook that looks like it is probably intended to simulate a walking crab. All in all, a quick, unofficial estimate figures we are trailing something like $175 in hardware underneath this boat. There are six fishermen on board.

Our first sighting is a Mallard duck that is, for some unknown reason, flying north. Then we see our second sighting, which is a storm gathering over the John Hancock building in Chicago. The marine radio confirms that there are thunder clouds south, but we are in no danger. In the first place it isn't that severe. In the second place the boat is big and seaworthy enough to survive a quick run for home, which is a mere two miles straight west. We are rigged up and fishing 60 feet of water. Four of the cannonball downriggers are bumping the bottom.

The action begins almost immediately. Stan Mallett, Chicago insurance broker, loses the first fish that hits. It snapped loose the outrigger line from the port sideboard. Stan forgot that the hook is already set in the fish's mouth, so he set it again. The fish flew out of the water and spit the lure right back at him. The fish leaped like a steelhead, and Larry, the mate, is swearing, because he's never caught a steelhead and hates to see them lost.

O.D. Brown can't resist wondering, out loud, if Mallett "tightened up" under the pressure. Brown's daughter, April, about 12, says she would have landed the fish if Stan hadn't "helped" her. Then a down-rigger "fires"; the line is free and screaming noisily off the reel. Stan doesn't blow this one. He picks up the rod and adjusts the drag a little tighter because the fish is taking line faster than he can reel. No setting the hook this time. He just keeps it between the other lines at each side of him. Larry is running the boat and keeping the fish directly behind us. With this kind of co-operation, we can land a fish without taking in the other lines and without tangling up in them.

Mallett has learned his lesson well. As the fish comes up within range of Atkinson's landing net, Stan leans back on the rod and lifts the rod tip. The eight pound coho comes smoothly to the surface and into the net. Number one.

In the space of a four hour trip, we hooked eight fish, landed five and saw, on the Vexilar read-out and the Fish Hawk, perhaps another 15 or 20 big fish. Two things were worth discovering.

First: Contrary to some fishermen's belief, there are still plenty of fish in Lake Michigan within reach of the west shoreline. We caught four coho and one five pound steelhead trout. No chinooks. All were in 65 feet of water. There was absolutely nothing any shallower than that. A scientific test boat confirmed that the only thing his soundings had indicated shallower than 60 feet were alewife, shad and a few perch.

Second: We saw a lot of fish on the two sounders, but we didn't catch one that we "saw." On the other hand, we couldn't find a sign of any of the fish we caught on the Vexilar read-out, which indicates that the fish are right on the bottom. The fact that we took only one fish on a shallow-running lure seemed to confirm this.

Both Bert and Donna (Donna G.) Atkinson keep a storehouse of information in their boathouse at the Waukegan Harbor and they're glad to part with it. Drop in or phone for current Lake Michigan fish info: 662-9632.

Perfect score --

It does not happen very often, but when it does it is something to write and talk about, a perfect score in an obedience trial class.

Such a score, 200 out of a possible 200 points, was awarded to a German Shepherd, Gus' Lady Karia, owned by Wendall Gustafson of Alsip, Ill., at the Northwest Obedience trial held Aug. 20 at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights.

The dog was entered in the Novice A - Section 1 class judged by Herbert E. Semper, Hoffman Estates. After the trial was over, Semper commented that he had never seen such a perfect combination of teamwork between a handler and dog.

It goes without saying that the German Shepherd was the highest scoring dog in the trial, which had 257 dogs entered. There were 47 different breeds entered with Poodles having 43 for the highest individual breed, followed by German Shepherds 42, Shetland Sheepdogs 16, Labrador Retrievers 15 and Golden Retrievers and Doberman Pinschers tied with 14 each.

Basenji owners - plan ahead --

On Sunday, Oct. 1, the Greater Chicagoland Basenji Club, Inc., will hold its annual A.K.C. sanctioned "B" match. The location will be in South Elgin on Highway 31, in back of the Tri-County Realty Co.

Match hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with entries closing at noon and judging starting at 1 p.m. There will be conformation, obedience and junior showmanship classes offered.

Spectators are welcome and there will be food and beverages available. For more information, contact Mrs. Linda Benson, 3325 W. Palmer, Chicago, 60647, or by telephone, 278-0864.

Tracking test --

North Shore Dog Training Club, Inc., is going to hold its fall tracking test on Sunday, Sept. 24, at Twin Ponds Hunt Club, Algonquin.

Of all the tracking tests held in the country, this one has turned out to be the largest. They have a limit of 40 dogs, which may not seem like many dogs, but in tracking there's nothing like it.

If you plan to enter your dog in the event better get your entry in soon. The deadline is Tuesday noon, Sept. 12. For entry forms and information, contact the tracking trial secretary, Miss Eleanor Bement, 1624 Walters Rd., Northbrook, Ill. 60062.

Dogs in Russia --

Leading a dog's life in the Soviet Union isn't as bad as it used to be, reports the Gaines Dog Research Center. A recent news item estimates that there are about 60,000 dogs in Moscow alone and the number is growing rapidly.

Their status has improved to the point where they are now eligible for free medical care, the story states.

Barks & Bays --

The 45th annual celebration of National Dog Week will be held this year from Sept. 24 - 30.

'All Because I Stuck My Fist In The Air'

by IRA BERKOW

MUNICH — (NEA) — "What's it been like the last four years? Miserable. I beg here, borrow there, steal here. Hustlin'. When you grow up in a ghetto like Harlem, you learn how to hustle," said John Carlos. "Nobody'll hire me. I'm an untouchable. All because I took my fist and stuck it in the air."

"Say, what you want, an interview? I need money. I got a wife and two little kids that I been making promises to. Then I show up empty. Come across with some bread, huh?"

Carlos slumped slightly in his chair in the athletic shoe store in the Olympic Village here, stroked his beard, stretched out his long legs and agreed tacitly to talk.

Athletes in a rainbow of sweat suits came in to look at shoes, joke and slap palms with Carlos. He is not here as a participant because a short-lived pro football career ended his amateur standing. He is in fact working in the store. He says the shoe company paid his transportation and room and board here. But that's all. He says he must pick up all other expenses.

He had wanted an executive job with the company, whose shoes he has been wearing and promoting for 10 years ("before other cats ever even heard of 'em"), but says he was refused. "They said I give 'em a bum image in Mexico City."

In what has been variously described as a heroic, dumb, humanitarian, evil act, John Carlos and Tommie Smith each gave black-gloved Black Power salutes as they received their bronze and gold medals respectively after the 200-meter race in the 1968 Olympics. They were immediately expelled from the Olympic Village there. Carlos said Tommie Smith has had to "hustle," too, until he recently became assistant athletic director at Oberlin College.

Why did Carlos give the salute?

"I tried to do something for mankind," he said. "I wanted to make some kind of statement about the injustices all over the world, not just America. I wanted people to wake up to what's happening in the world. One half the world is rich, the other half is starving. It should be balanced."

Is he involved in any kind of Olympic boycott action here?

"No, and I don't think there will be any from an individual standpoint. The athletes seem younger now, and not so socially conscious. I'm not talking about the nation-to-nation thing. That's something else.

"But that's part of the whole political thing about the Olympics. Don Schollander told it straight. He said the Olympics are more political than the presidential elections. You know, why do you have to wear the uniform of your country here? Why do they play national anthems? Why do we have to beat the Russians? Why do the East Germans want to beat the West Germans? Why can't everyone wear the same colors but wear numbers to tell them apart? What happened to the Olympic ideal of man against man?"

Has anything concrete come from his action in 1968?

"I think some people maybe even guys in our government, got their heads together better about some issues like race."

Did he learn anything from the experience?

"I learned that the only difference between America and the other countries is that the other countries are not preachin' this freedom of speech jive. In the States, if they don't dig what you're sayin', you're an outcast."

"I see that 'cause I can't get hired. I got a degree in business from San Jose State. It means nothing. I wanted something in public relations. Nothing. I wanted to make a State Department track tour. They took Bill Toomey, not me. In so many words they told me I was undesirable."

Would he do the Black Power salute again if he had it to do over?

"If I felt I had to."

Is he disappointed in not being able to compete here?

"I go down to the track every day and work out. I ran a 10-flat 100 meters the other day. And I see this Russian sprinter, Borzov, who people are talking about. They call him the White Blitz. But that's cool. I'd like to run against him man to man, not black against white. For the competition. But a good white sprinter comes along once every eight, 10 years, like that German a couple years back, and that Italian, and people fuss over 'em."

"Borzov saw me on the track the other night. I was in my sweats. I knew he was wondering if I was eligible."

And the future?

"Maybe I'll be a track coach. I've had offers from Africa. Yeah, I may be forced to leave my own country."

All-Navy Sailing Races At Great Lakes

The first All-Navy Sailing Championships will be held here on Lake Michigan next week, Aug. 30, 31 and Sept. 1.

The three days of racing will see crews from Naval installations across the nation compete for top honors.

Beginning in 1969 a Navy wide invitational regatta has been held each year at the Naval Station, Annapolis, Md. But the contest at Great Lakes this year is the first to be sponsored by the Chief of Naval Personnel, and the first that will result in one three man crew earning the title of "Navy Champs."

Meeting at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, will be the top crews from the recently completed East and West Coast Championship competitions. The East Coast Navy title races were held at the Annapolis Naval Station. Representing the east coast at Great Lakes will be crews from the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., the Annapolis branch of the U.S. Navy Sailing Association (USNSA), the Naval District, Washington, D.C., and the Ninth Naval District headquartered at Great Lakes.

Competing from the west coast will be crews from the Pacific Amphibious Force headquartered at Coronado, Calif., the 13th Naval District headquartered in Seattle, Wash., and the 11th Naval District headquartered in San Diego, Calif.

In addition to these entries, the USNSA, because of its contributions to recreational sailing in the Navy, has been allowed to send one crew from each of its 10 branches to Great Lakes without having those crews compete in a coastal championship. However, all crews must have at least one enlisted member. This includes coastal championships.

The three man crews will be sailing 18 foot Interlakers with main, jib, and spinnaker sails. The crews will rotate boats after each race, and there will be as many races as there are entries. The winning boat from each race will be given one point; the boat that takes second will be given two points and so on down the line. At the end of the races the boat with the lowest score wins the All-Navy title. In case a boat does not finish a race it will be given one more point than the last placed boat received.

An Olympic style course has been marked off the Great Lakes harbor. The course includes a windward starting leg, two reach legs, another windward leg, a leeward leg, and a windward beat to the finish line. Most of the legs are nearly a mile long.

During the races each boat may enter a protest against another boat for what seems to be a violation of the rules. These protests will be aired before the protest committee each night. Sitting on the committee are Mr. Don Glasell, 805 Judson, Evanston, Ill., Capt. R. D. McWethy, USN (Ret.), Executive Secretary and Past Commodore of the USNSA, Mr. Don Wittenburg of Lake Forest, Ill., and Chief Opticalman Lloyd T. Stagg, USN. Wittenburg is well known in local yachting circles. In 1971 his ROGUE took Class II honors at the Navy Cutlass Trophy Race hosted by the Naval Training Center.

The championship races will be governed by the International Yacht Racing Rules as adopted by the North American Yacht Racing Union in 1969. The 720 degree, 20 per cent rule will additionally apply in case of protests.

The Naval Training Center is commanded by Capt. Samuel Gorsline Jr., USN. Captain Gorsline was also the host of the 1972 Navy Cutlass Trophy Race held at the Naval Training Center earlier this month.

Schaumburg Hockey Sign-Up

Would you believe, with current temperatures in the 80's and 90's, that the Schaumburg Hockey League is in full swing?

Registration for tryouts for all boys between the ages of seven through 18 are to be held at the Jennings House in Schaumburg on Saturday, Sept. 2, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Cost for tryouts registration will be $7. This entitles the boy to two tryouts. Tryouts will be held at the Polar Dome, in East Dundee. They will start on Sept. 12.

The SHL regular league games will start Oct. 1 at the Polar Dome. A full schedule of 21 games with 21 practice sessions will be the program for this year. Plans also include exhibition games in the course of the hockey season, in addition to this schedule. More information can be obtained by calling league coordinator Tom Murphy at 529-3402.

Weather Doesn't Stop Friday Night Linksmen

Neither wind nor sleet nor driving rain can keep the dedicated golfer from his appointed rounds.

That was demonstrated in the Mount Prospect Friday Night League last week when the final session of the season was held despite a pouring rain. The two front-running teams elected to battle it out in spite of conditions and Clayton Court Apartments finally was rewarded with first place ahead of Wille Hardware. FBK Realtors finished third and Bainbridge Apartments fourth in the big 14-team league. Positions were closely bunched through the first 12 spots, indicating even balance.

Neither side would quit in the first-place battle even though the last few shots were taken in semi-dark, drenching conditions.

One golfer who was not bothered by the wetness was Monty Punch, who shot low net of 32 which was his best score of the season. Another was Bert Johnson, who somehow rammed in two birdies on the 13th and 15th holes — the second coming on a 60-yard shot into the cup.

Five other men also claimed birds with three of them on the fifth hole by Ron Reichl, William Harner and Jim Johnson. The others were by Don Campbell on the first hole and George Powlick on the 13th. Powlick almost holed out for an eagle but his shot hit the pin and stopped four inches from the cup.

The league wishes to thank all sponsors for their cooperation. It is local businessmen who make such amateur golf leagues possible.

MANY PLAYERS TRY TO PRODUCE A HIGH CHIP BY TAKING THE CLUBHEAD AWAY CLOSE TO THE GROUND AND RETURNING TO THE BALL IN A SCOOPING, UPSWING MANNER.

ACTUALLY, GETTING A BALL UP REQUIRES A SYSTEM QUITE THE OPPOSITE: THE HIGHER YOU WANT TO HIT THE BALL, THE MORE ABRUPTLY, OR SHARPLY, YOU MUST HIT DOWN ON IT!

YET, THE KEY FACTOR DETERMINING LOFT IS NOT SO MUCH HOW YOU SWING, BUT HOW THE FACE OF THE CLUB ANGLES AT IMPACT. IT SHOULD BE SQUARE FOR NORMAL CHIPS, CLOSED FOR LOW CHIPS, AND OPEN WHEN YOU WANT HEIGHT.

Breedlove Seeking Speed Standard At Union Grove

Craig Breedlove, who has always had a love affair going with speed, has taken on a new ambition, to become the fastest man through the quarter-mile in a rocket powered dragster.

Breedlove, who holds many land speed records, will attempt to hit the 300 mph mark in his rocket ship during the "Jet, Turbine and Rocket car Nationals" at the Great Lakes Dragaway, in Union Grove, Wis., Sept. 1-2-3-4.

Races are slated to start at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday and Labor Day.

Breedlove's rocket car weighs 1600 pounds and the engine is capable of generating 10,000 pounds of thrust. The racer operates from a three-point stance with one lone wheel in front. Duel electric brakes and twin electrically operated parachutes assist in stopping.

Two other racers capable of 300 mph plus a large field of jet powered racers will be in the starting lineup with Breedlove. All cars will race in side by side competition all four days.

On Aug. 5, 1963, Breedlove drove his first "Spirit of America" to a speed record of 407.45 mph and accomplished one of his major aims — to bring the world land speed record back to the United States. On Oct. 13 and 15, 1964, Craig set two new records — 468.72 and 526.28. Then in 1965, Craig again set two new records as he pushed the "Spirit" to new speeds of 555.12 and 600.60, this last record stood for 5 years.

In 1970 Breedlove lost his record to Gary Gabelich. The rocket car Craig will race at the Great Lakes dragstrip Sept. 1-4 is a small version of the car he is building to try to regain the land speed mark.

Busy Weekend Slated For Raceway's Plant

The busiest weekend of the season is in store for stock car racing fans at Raceway Park, located at 130th and So. Ashland Avenue in Blue Island, with late model competition scheduled for three successive nights, Sept. 2-4.

The holiday weekend gets under way Saturday with late model stocks competing in a 30-lap feature event, plus three 10-lap heat races and a Trophy Dash for the five fastest qualifiers, plus a 20-lap feature for drivers of Super Six cars, who will also run at least three 10-lap heat races.

This same program will be held on Sunday night, plus a Demolition Derby "football" game in which opposing teams will batter a compact car back and forth across enemy goal lines.

The big event of the holiday weekend will be the annual Labor Day Twin 50 classic, Monday night, when a field of approximately 30 late model cars will compete in two 50-lap features for one of the richest purses of the season. The Twin 50, coming on a holiday night, is expected to lure the largest crowd of the season and the driver who can win both segments of the Classic stands to take a giant step toward the season's point championship.

Ray Young of Dolton and Bud Koehler of Blue Island, who are running 1-2 in the season's point standings for the track championship of 1972, each won one segment of the first Twin 50 Classic of the year on July 2nd. Other drivers scheduled to compete over the 3-night racing weekend are Bill McEnery of Evergreen Park, Jerry Kemperman and James Bond of Blue Island, Stash Kullman of Roseland, Paul Bauer of Garden Homes, Ted Janecyk of Calumet Park and Johnny Buzinec of Alsip.

Time trials will start each night at 6:30 and the first race at 8 o'clock. Parking, as always, is free to Raceway patrons.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a career woman in my 60s and think that a facelift might help me in my work. Would you please explain a little bit about this operation, such as the amount of time one must be away from work and the results, the dangers at this age, the length of the operation and any other information you might have?

Dear Reader — Whether or not a person should have a facelift is an individual matter. The best reason for having one is pure vanity because a person wants to look better. In our age-conscious society it's also helpful to some people in business and professions which place a premium on youth. One of the problems of facelifts is that people often expect too much. It may make the face look younger but it's not going to change what's inside the skin. The body will still be the same age. Nevertheless, if it improves a person's appearance and he is pleased with this change, it may affect his personality favorably. Older individuals who are still full of life and think young are sometimes handicapped by a decrepit look of old age caused by the wrinkling and sagging of the face. For these people a facelift is often beneficial.

Not all faces are improved by such surgery. In general a face that sags or hangs in folds is apt to be improved, whereas a face that has a lot of fine wrinkles, particularly those running up and down the face, is not so apt to be improved.

There are several different techniques for a facelift. In general I think the technique that removes the skin next to the hairline without pulling the hair back is the best. If the distance between the hairline and the eyes, mouth and nose is changed by pulling the scalp back, it changes the appearance of the face, making it larger in proportion to the hairline. Also this limits the number of facelifts that can be done or the amount of skin that can be removed.

In general facelifts are not dangerous. They are sometimes mildly uncomfortable. How long it takes a person to recover depends on how extensive the facelift is. If it's just the lower face, not involving work around the eyes, the face will look rather well within two weeks. A woman can use cosmetics and, by the way she arranges her hair, literally obscure the incision marks. The face will retain some excessive swelling, however, which will give it a fatter appearance for three to six months. The feeling that your face is really your own again will not occur for as long as one year after the surgery. If surgery is done on the lower eyelids to remove the bags under the eyes, the eyelids may not regain their normal function for at least three months and sometimes nearly a year.

The best thing for you to do is to have a consultation with a plastic surgeon who does cosmetic surgery. Your family physician may be able to find one for you or, if for one reason or another you don't wish to do it that way, you can request help from the county medical society.

Pink Envelope For Auto Form

Motorists submitting pre-printed applications for 1973 registration of their cars should use the pink return envelope which accompanied the application, said John W. Lewis, secretary of state.

Many motorists have forwarded their applications in the white envelope which was used to send the applications to them, Lewis said. The post office treats these as undeliverable returned mail, which requires that all returned mail be sorted to determine which is actually undeliverable and which contains applications and fees.

This creates the danger that some applications will be missed and the applicants may lose desirable license numbers as a result, he warned. About 50,000 pieces of such mail have been received so far.

Mailing of all 4.5 million pre-printed applications was completed early this month, a month in advance of the end of mailing a year ago, Lewis said.

Motorists desiring to retain their present license numbers must have their applications in the Secretary of State's office on or before Sept. 30, the statutory reassignment deadline, he pointed out.

Four From Area Are Student Teachers

Four local residents, students at Southern Illinois University, were student teachers this summer. Student teaching is required to earn their teaching degree.

Unemployed Actor Must Do Something

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — When an actor finds himself too long between jobs he has a choice of three alternatives. Drop out of show biz, create his own acting vehicle, or live at the unemployment office.

Some drop out. Ralph Taeger is selling automobiles. He once starred in the "Hondo" series. Dwayne Hickman, "Dobie Gillis" for five years, is now an advertising executive in Las Vegas.

Peter Brown and Bill Smith, who starred for two seasons in "Laredo," found themselves increasingly between jobs.

For them it was the unemployment lines, occasional guest spots or jobs in another line of work. OR they could get off their duffs and put together a project of their own.

THAT'S PRECISELY what Brown and Smith, which sound like a pair of names on a hotel register, did when they co-produced "Once Upon A Tribe." Smith stars in the movie with Brown assuming most of the producer's chores.

Of their picture, Brown says, "We may get some static from the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington. Our picture is a contemporary story about Indians and how they are treated in today's society."

"We don't equivocate. We tell it just like it happens, a social document on Indians and Their Mistreatment."

Brown has something of a stake in the social aspects of the film. He is part Indian himself and attended Sierra Union High School which he says was composed 70 per cent of Indians.

"Bill and I turned to production because we got tired of working for nothing," Brown went on. "If I appear in a picture that winds up earning a lot of money, I work for scale and a pat on the back."

"IT'S NOT EASY raising money for an independent production. But we may have set a record as the first co-stars of a one-time television series to turn to feature production."

"Once Upon A Tribe" deals with no specific area of the country, nor an identifiable tribe.

Because the movie was filmed in the Hollywood vicinity, Indian actors and extras were not easily come by, especially for mob scenes requiring background atmosphere.

It is probably the first Hollywood picture involving Indians in which both Jay Silverheels and Iron Eyes Cody do not appear.

Wryly, Pete admitted it would be the first time since the Little Big Horn that the Indians win in a Hollywood motion picture.

U.S. 'Split Personality' Toward TV

by RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In America, network television officials make speeches and statements alleging government intrusion in broadcasting.

In China, NBC-TV producer Lucy Jarvis is filming special programs during a planned five-week visit chiefly because President Nixon's China trip earlier this year opened the door.

Summer developments have highlighted American video's split personality in regard to the federal government.

One day there is a critical network speech. Another, Mrs. Jarvis leaves for Peking. Yet another, Nixon aide Henry Kissinger drops in on the writers of "Laugh-In" at NBC-TV's Burbank, Calif., studios along with Russia's ambassador to the United States, Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

As for video's split personality, it all stems from the fact that broadcasting, using public airwaves, is subject to constant government regulations, while the printed media have much more leeway.

NBC EVEN WENT so far as to propose that the Democrats and Republicans include planks in their party platforms reaffirming the public's 1st Amendment guarantees of free speech and a free press, definitely including the broadcast press. Excerpt from NBC's suggested plank:

"We recognize that the public is informed by speech in broadcasting and magazines and that government interference with the broadcast press is as intolerable as with the print press."

NBC News President Reuben Frank says, "It is my understanding that the purpose of the 1st Amendment was not to achieve freedom to print; that was its method. Its purpose was to keep all government out of all news."

The same network's president, Julian Goodman, wrote to Sen. Alan Cranston praising him for introducing a news-men's privilege bill "to provide the protection — withheld by the Supreme Court in recent decisions — for free flow of information to the public."

And in another video development, NBC's parent company, RCA, again chiefly because of Nixon's China visit, signed a contract in that nation with a Chinese organization to install a new satellite communications earth station in Peking and expand an existing one in Shanghai.

IN THIS COUNTRY, back in the area of day-to-day popular programming, Nixon's daughter Tricia will appear on NBC-TV's morning Dinah Shore series Sept. 6. And the next day, the same series will offer Eleanor McGovern, wife of Nixon's opponent in November's presidential election, Sen. George McGovern.

The Kissinger-Dobrynin visit of the "Laugh-In" writers' meeting was part of a tour for the two men.

On the home screen, by the way, another top Republican, Gov. Ronald Reagan, will appear on CBS-TV's new season premiere of the Sonny and Cher comedy-variety hour Sept. 15, wily Howard Keel, Wilfrid Hyde-White, Larry Storch and the Jackson Five recording group.

And in the news area, Mrs. Jarvis was invited to China by that country's Ministry of Information, and she says: "It is part of the cultural exchange established during President Nixon's visit last winter."

The indefatigable Mrs. Jarvis took a crew of five with her to China. One of her programs apparently will deal with Chinese art treasures. Her credits are The "Louvre" and the "Kremlin." At NBC-TV, they love Lucy.

Today's TV Highlights

SUMMER OLYMPICS, ABC. From Munich, the network devotes all three hours of its prime time to events scheduled to include basketball, boxing, gymnastics, swimming, diving, volleyball, weight lifting and wrestling. 7 p.m. CDT.

TODAY, NBC. There is a planned discussion about professional sports leagues and their recruitment of college athletes in their junior year and even earlier. 8 a.m. CDT.

DINAH'S PLACE, NBC. Dom De Luise and his wife are guests on this morning's Dinah Shore series. Repeat. 9 a.m. CDT.

CBS REPORTS. "The Mexican Connection." Rerun of an hour documentary about drug traffic between Mexico and the United States, and examining the working of air smuggling. 7 p.m. CDT.

ROD SERLING'S Night Gallery, NBC. Episodes concern: A fellow, Laurence Harvey, newly arrived in Borneo, who decides to eliminate the husband of a woman he is attracted to (Joanna Pettet); and a man (Ed Nelson) assigned to maintain the illusion that the accidentally-killed young daughter of a professor William Windom is still present so the educator can complete a secret project vital to the nation. Spock Prescribes A New President

by TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — He is such a nice man. Sixty-nine years old now. And bald. And dark blue suits. And pin-through collars. He is the son of a onetime railroad attorney, grown up among the comforts and conservatism of Connecticut Republicans. Such a nice man. Spectacles. Quiet. Composed. Such a nice, nice man.

Why does Dr. Benjamin Spock want to overthrow the government? Well, he says, his legs like willow branches, reaching out in a droop from his chair, well "This country is... we're all of us in such terrible, terrible trouble."

So that's why. Why after six decades of respectability, after writing a fluffy little book on babies that became an all-time best seller (25 million copies), after becoming one of the most widely known pillars of the medical profession in the world, Ben Spock, as his wife of 42 years calls him (42 years), has embraced some of the most radical ideas of American history and has decided to run for the presidency of the Union on the notion that the Union is rotten and needs to be deodorized with revolution.

AS CANDIDATE OF the People's Party, which is an outgrowth of the Peace and Freedom Party, which has many members from the New Party, which was itself merely a collection of men and women from a party whose name has been forgotten, Ben Spock wants to legalize marijuana and abortion, guarantee a $6,500 income for every U.S. family, mandate free medical care for everyone in the land, end the war in Vietnam, bring home every U.S. soldier now stationed on foreign lands and, and: "Well, that will give you some idea — we have many, many other plans, however."

Gads. Good gravy even. Who would vote for such a kook? The writer, maybe, for one.

Ben Spock is not your everyday pediatrician turned radical. He is a rather rich old guy who has decided, late in the day, that one can no longer believe in what one has believed in all along — that America is honest and good and fair. He wanted to believe it. He tried to believe it for 60 years. But, alas, "I suppose the beginning of my radicalization was due to two events. One, I hated nuclear weapons so I joined SANE in 1962. Two, I campaigned for Lyndon Johnson in 1964. Of the two, I suppose the second was the most eye-opening experience. I really believed in Lyndon Johnson then. I got out on the stump for him a number of times."

I remember after he was elected he called me and said, 'Oh, Dr. Spock, I do hope I prove worthy of your support.' Well, then the war escalation started and everything else. I was appalled. Seeing what that man did, seeing how he betrayed his promise to the people — well, I began to realize what I never had before."

THE YEARS SINCE, for Ben Spock, are part of the public record. Arrested, accosted, jailed and assailed. He was part of one demonstration that tried to close down Washington. He was tried two times (found guilty, then acquitted) on charges of counseling young people to break draft laws.

Small wonder the man has become (forced into?) part of the smallest political minority in the country — the extremist left. "I've found," he says of his pistailed and pot-smoking new fellows, "they are wonderful people. Not like what I had imagined. I admit I had reservations about them once. I was as full of prejudices as anyone. I suppose that I probably never would have joined them if it had been left up to me. But, as it happened, I didn't go to them. They came to me. And once I got to know them and understand them, I found the generation gap made no difference."

Dr. Spock has, on the surface, little in common with the militants, the wildeyes, the somewhat nutty members of the People's Party who nominated him as their standard bearer. He's old, man. He doesn't sniff cocaine. And in this day of women's lib and dying marriage, he's had this same gal with him for nearly half a century. Yet he appeals to the toughest revolutionaries in the nation. Why? "I once asked some people if I should change my conservative image, if I should wear old jeans or something. They said no, just do your thing — we think you're honest."

HONEST. THAT'S HIM. And among this year's presidential candidates, some say, including himself, Dr. Spock may be the most totally honest. He does not waffle on issues: "I think homosexuals should be entirely free to do what they want as long as their partners are consenting." He does not sell out to anyone for support: "I am a radical, yes, but I do not believe in violent radicalism and I don't like those people who subscribe to that." He doesn't even mess around about himself: "I haven't got a chance to be elected, I know that. But I do want to keep our movement rolling."

And so he runs — if not popularly, at least honestly. Already he has campaigned in some 27 states. He hopes to be on the ballot in about 12.

Grant Ben Spock at least a nod for efforts in raising the level of politics. "Some people have asked if I'm a serious candidate," he says.

"Well, I think I'm more serious than Mr. Nixon or Mr. McGovern. They are only trying to win an election. I am trying to bring about a better U.S.A."

Estimated Tax Filers Won't Get Reminder

Individuals filing 1972 declarations of estimated tax have an important deadline approaching. Sept. 15 is the date by which third quarter estimated tax installments must be filed and paid.

Estimated tax filers will not receive a reminder notice each quarter as they have in past years.

Taxpayers whose anticipated income during 1972 has changed may be required to either amend their declaration, or if they have not already done so, to file one. Space to compute the amount of estimated tax due is provided in the estimated tax package.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and
James Jacoby

South ruffed the third round of hearts and hummed softly to himself. If you had listened carefully, you would have noted the words were: "Where, O where is the king of diamonds; Where, O where can it be?"

Look at the hand. You can see his problem. If East holds the king, he can enter dummy with a high trump; lead the queen of diamonds and let it ride. Then he can play ace, king and a third club. The defense will win its third trick, but South will be able to ruff the fourth club in dummy and make his game.

Suppose West has the king of diamonds. The finesse will lose and eventually South will have to lose his fourth trick to the queen or jack of clubs.

South didn't hum very long because he knew where the king of diamonds was. West had opened the bidding with a heart with just seven high card points in that suit. Without the king of diamonds West could not hold more than 10 high card points and would not have made a vulnerable opening bid. As extra confirmation, East had passed the one heart opening. He might well have responded with the king of diamonds and three hearts to the queen.

Since he knew where the monarch was located, South proceeded to make his contract. He simply led his low diamond toward dummy.

West did the best he could. He rose with his king and led a trump.

South won in his hand; cashed the diamond ace; played two more rounds of trumps to stop in dummy, and discarded his two small clubs on the queen and jack of diamonds.

Appraisal Course Is Added To Fall Roster

Harper College in Palatine has added an appraisal course to its fall roster of real estate courses. "Appraisal I" (RES 122) is part of the real estate certificate curriculum and will be offered on Tuesday from 6:25 to 9:05 p.m. starting Sept. 12.

Robert A. Cagann, president of Robert A. Cagann and Associates, Inc., will teach the course. Cagann's firm specializes in real estate consulting, appraisal and management.

"Although all forms of real estate appraisal will be considered, special emphasis will be given to the appraisal of residential real estate," according to Harper business division chairman, Charles F. Falk. "The course is also suitable for those seeking to fulfill the education requirements for the Illinois broker's licensure examination and assumes previous formal training in real estate."

'Don't Limit School Budgets'

Public education, like voting, cannot be limited on the basis of wealth, three national education associations argue in a joint friend of the court brief filed before the U. S. Supreme Court in the San Antonio, Tex., school financing case.

"Voting and public education are the basic institutions of the state for achieving orderly change," the National Education Association, the American Association of School Administrators, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers point out in the brief. The court already has ruled that voting may not be restricted on the basis of wealth, striking down poll taxes levied as a prerequisite for voting.

The education associations' brief supports the ruling by the federal court for the Western District of Texas. This lower court, which heard the San Antonio case, in effect struck down the state's public school financing system, which makes the amount of money available for education in a district principally a function of the district's taxable wealth. The court noted that this system makes educational expenditures for children largely dependent on the wealth of the school district in which the children happen to live.

THE STATE OF Texas appealed the case — San Antonio Independent School District v. Rodriguez — to the Supreme Court, asserting that educational expenditures are not necessarily related to the quality of education, and that the present financing plan affords the community local control over its schools. Independent school districts in Texas, such as the one in San Antonio, are political subdivisions of the state.

School authorities and state and local officials across the nation are expectantly awaiting the Supreme Court ruling, which probably will not be until fall. All states except Hawaii depend heavily on the local property tax for school financing.

Kids Can Learn Traffic

Supt. of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis has announced that his office has developed the nation's first comprehensive program for teaching major traffic safety concepts at the elementary school level.

was pilot tested at East Maine School District 63 in Niles, moves away from the practice of teaching safety as a memorization of "do's and don'ts." It also provides continuity of instruction from one grade to the next.

Bakalis said the safety education section of his office has prepared a complete curriculum for introduction this year in kindergarten through fifth grade classes of Illinois Public schools. The curriculum, tailored to the level of each age group, provides instruction on pedestrian and bicycle safety, he said.

"Illinois is the only state which has developed materials that are practical for teacher use," Bakalis said. "Our program may well become the model for the entire nation," he added.

Bakalis said the safety program, which

Jewish Plan High Holiday Services

The first High Holiday Services of the Woodfield Jewish Congregation, 664 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, will be conducted this year by Rabbi Meyer Magence. Gary Sherman, 374 Westview St., Hoffman Estates, will serve as Cantor (chanter or singer) for the services.

Rabbi Magence obtained his bachelor's degree Magna Cum Laude from Loyola University in political science. He received his rabbinical training at Yeshiva University and is presently pursuing his Ph.D. in urban studies at Northwestern University.

Sherman, a charter member of the congregation, has been leading Sabbath religious services for the group for the last several months.

As Cantor, Sherman will chant and assist the rabbi in a half dozen religious services during the holy New Year services. All services will be held at the Itasca Holiday Inn on Irving Park Road, east of Ill. Rte. 53.

Although the Jewish New Year won't begin until sundown, Sept. 8, a special midnight service (called Slichot) will be held on the evening of Sept. 2, ushering out the old year. This service is traditionally one of setting a mood of self-evaluation and introspection.

Jewish New Year, or Rosh Hashana services, will be held on Sept. 8, 9, and 10. The Kol Nidre (All of Our Sins) service will be held the evening of Sept. 17 and Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement) service on Sept. 18.

For further information and tickets to the High Holiday services, call 885-1776, 359-3359, or 882-3086.

Nursing Graduates Receive Pins

Twenty-seven graduates of the practical nursing program at Harper College, Palatine, received pins of their profession in ceremonies at the college on August 11.

Dr. Keith Wurtz, staff member at Northwest Community Hospital department of surgery, was guest speaker. His talk concerned "The Nurse in Medical Care Today." Dr. David Gale, chairman of life and health sciences division, spoke as a representative of the Harper College administration.

Faculty member Mrs. Carol DeBiase conducted the presentation of pins and certificates of completion to the graduates.

"The graduates have completed the 42-week program in practical nursing and are now eligible to take state board examinations for licensing," said Mrs. Mary Lou Flanagan, coordinator for the practical nursing program. "The license confers the title of Licensed Practical Nurse."

Management Course Slated At Harper

The continuing construction of apartment complexes in the northwest suburban area has prompted the adoption of a short course in "Resident Management of Apartment Communities" at Harper College, Palatine.

The course will be offered by Harper's continuing education office for persons considering apartment management or those already working in that capacity.

Subjects will cover various aspects of the business beginning with the move into newly constructed apartment buildings, lease agreement and furnishings. Other topics deal with activities for residents and the importance of good relationships with residents, staff and the public.

Classes will be held Thursday, 6 to 8 p.m., from Sept. 14 to Nov. 3. Tuition is $18 for Harper district residents and $49.28 for non residents.

The 1971-72 Practical Nursing class officers are: president, Kenneth Beattie of Palatine; vice-president, Miss Mary Kelly of Northbrook; secretary, Mrs. Marlene Speros of Mount Prospect, and treasurer, Mrs. Anna Auxier of Crystal Lake.

Beattie, the sole male class member, is preparing to enter a religious order. He plans to use his practical nursing training in the mission field. He is from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, but has lived in Palatine during his program participation.

The class included identical twins, Jean and Judy Duntzman of Barrington. The 19-year-old girls have intrigued patients with look-alike appearances since they were Candy Striper volunteers at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. Both graduates intend to continue attending Harper as students in the associate degree nursing program.

Several students have handled household duties and family rearing along with

In Eight District High Schools

82 New Teachers To Start

High School Dist. 214 will have 82 new teachers when school opens this fall, 70 per cent of them hired to accommodate new enrollment.

School is scheduled to open Tuesday, Sept. 5 at the eight schools in Dist. 214.

In addition, the district will have four new administrators, all appointed from positions within the system. Richard Etherton, who has been supervisor of industrial education at Prospect High School, now is practical arts division head at Prospect. George Ergang, a social studies teacher at Elk Grove, has been named practical arts division head at Elk Grove.

Carl Massa, a math teacher at Wheeling High School, will take over as dean of students at Rolling Meadows High School. Donald Purcell, who has been math department subchairman at Prospect for seven years, now is chairman of that department.

The district also has hired a public information specialist, Mrs. Sally Plunkett, who has been on the job since July 1.

New faculty members at the schools are:

Arlington High School: Thomas N. Chapman, mathematics teacher; Ralph D. Converse, instrumental music; and Miss Karen R. Crews, business education.

Retarded Program Helps Them Fit

Elgin State Hospital's adult mental retardation program, serving Lake County and parts of Cook County, is now working toward fitting mentally retarded adults into community life through the Ray Graham Handicapped Workshop in Addison.

For six hours a day, five days a week, the patients work at light assembly, packaging and mailing. Compensation is made either by hourly wage or piece rate, and the workers are paid every two weeks.

The workshop is a factory located in Addison's industrial park area. The center provides work for otherwise unemployable persons of all handicaps.

Elgin State Hospital first began affiliating with the workshop on Aug. 1 by sending four patients who showed good work skills. Eight more later joined in a program to develop self-help, pre-vocational and vocational skills.

REPETITION AND constant reinforcement are essential in training the retarded to work in a community. The program has four phases, based on the patient's ability.

The first phase teaches minimal self-care and compliance behavior skills. The second phase provides personal grooming and pre-workshop emphasis. Socialization, special education and simple work skills are stressed in the third phase. Patients in the fourth phase learn vocational skills and independent living responsibilities.

Usually, it takes a retarded person one to two years to progress from one level to the next.

The workshop currently is acquiring an apartment-like residency facility where patients will live during non-working hours, speeding the transition to independent living.

Easter Seal Society Crafts Program Aids Handicapped

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Beverly Sundell earns spending money . . . and a sense of worth and independence while working at home. Beverly is physically handicapped and spends most of her time with her parents in their Arlington Heights apartment.

Miss Sundell could very well let herself become despondent and — as she puts it — “a parasite.” But this is not the case with busy, cheerful Beverly. Though her mobility is limited, she has filled her life with purpose and well being by choosing to work six to eight hours daily in her own home workshop.

“It gives me something to do and some independence,” said Beverly, who fashions attractive gift items with the help of the Easter Seal Society of Metropolitan Chicago.

AT PRESENT, Miss Sundell is the only local disabled person benefitting from Easter Seal's home crafts program which is available to all eligible northwest suburban residents. “It's a shame other handicapped people do not know what Easter Seal is doing,” she said with a smile.

The home crafts program, which Easter Seal administers throughout Cook County, is designed for the homebound handicapped up to age 62, explained Mrs. W. J. Maloney, craft director.

To be eligible for the crafts program, workers must have good eyesight, the use of both hands and demonstrate some financial need, she added.

Marian Maloney, who designs as well as teaches crafts, travels all over Cook County teaching the handicapped, distributing materials and picking up finished items. Easter Seal then sells these crafts to help support this program otherwise entirely funded by benefit giving. The worker is paid when Mrs. Maloney picks up finished work.

“MARIAN IS the most!” declares Beverly of the friend and teacher she has worked with for three years, and who also works with about 23 other handicapped in the program.

Prior to working with Mrs. Maloney, Beverly worked in the Industrial Subcontract Program, another avenue for those who are handicapped. The Easter Seal Society negotiates contracts with industry, trains workers and, as in the crafts program, delivers materials and picks up finished products.

For example, when Beverly lived in Chicago where she had more work space, she packaged Christmas seals and other holiday products, placed stencils on business materials and sales tags on bakery packages. Another job was putting together small crepe paper Easter lilies for sale in states outside Illinois. “Here we use Easter seals,” she explained.

Working at a repetitious task never has bored Beverly. She tried daily to improve speed and efficiency and the work helped to fill her days, she said.

HOWEVER, THE world of crafts has opened up new vistas for Beverly. Under Marian's guidance, she has discovered talent she never dreamed she had. “If anyone had told me 10 years ago I would be creating dried flower pictures (her main endeavor now) I never would have believed it!” she chuckled.

But changing from industrial work to crafts was not an overnight miracle. Marian first instructed Beverly in work similar to what she had been doing. At first she simply pasted felt appliques to cardboard tubes designed to be used as decorative candy or liquor (or other) containers.

With patience and stick-to-itiveness, Miss Sundell next learned to cut out appliques and other trim and paste these to already prepared tubes. Finally she was able to do the whole job. Now she puts together red and white Santa Claus containers for holiday selling, green and white elves for St. Patrick Day and colorful cowboys and cowgirls and clowns for children.

Beverly also has learned to make yarn tails for the Society's Easter Bunny, assemble a variety of decorative paper weights and fashion artistic glass domes filled with dried materials and tiny artificial birds. She also decorates a tool holder for use in the kitchen and puts together a variety of Christmas ornaments plus other eye-catching gifts.

WITH FURTHER instruction and encouragement from her teacher (the work takes a neat, accurate and interested person Mrs. Maloney explains), Miss Sundell now fills most of her days creating beautiful floral pictures. Using real dried flowers, Beverly mounts — creating many of her own designs — tiny blossoms on a velvet background in a variety of colors. Framed in gold, pictures range in size and price.

“If I have any worries, I sit down, create a picture and forget my troubles,” Beverly said gratefully.

The Easter Seal Society likes to help people feel as Beverly does. Their approximately 42 gift items—made by handicapped persons who must spend most of their time at home — will be on display when the Society sponsors a benefit Sunday brunch at the Drake Hotel Oct. 29.

“The only way we have to raise money is through benefits and selling our craft work,” said Mrs. Maloney.

THOSE INTERESTED in attending the brunch may call 446-7435 for information. Anyone interested in helping the Society sell their craft work either acting as sale clerk or by supplying store space may call 261-2669 in Oak Park or in Chicago, 939-5115.

“We would be grateful to anyone gracious enough to offer us a corner or to man the sales!” said Mrs. Maloney. And Beverly — who wants to try decoupage next — seconds the motion!

MORE ADEPT NOW, Beverly spends most of her time creating floral pictures with dried flowers which she mounts carefully on velvet and puts into gold frames. Many of the designs are her own.

BEVERLY STARTED with simple craft projects, such as this cardboard container decorated with felt and newspaper.

EASTER SEAL SOCIETY'S home crafts program is giving Beverly Sundell of Arlington Heights a productive way to keep busy and make money. Under this program for the homebound handicapped, they are taught crafts. Items they create are later sold by the Easter Seal Society and workers paid for what they make.

One Sociologist's View

Motherhood: Obsolete Occupation?

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Defenders of motherhood won't like Jeanne Binstock. She maintains motherhood is on the way out as an occupation.

It can't be rubbed out completely for the obvious reason that the planet earth needs to be peopled with people. But motherhood is not what it used to be and must, indeed, fall into disrepute, according to the sociologist at the University of Massachusetts in Boston.

The egghead follows trends and facts as she builds her case in a report titled “Motherhood: An Occupation Facing Decline.”

The report in “The Futurist,” journal of the World Future Society, notes that in 20 years, mothers will be “a mere specialty group in the United States” — like plumbers, engineers, or whatever specialty comes to mind.

“THE STATE OF affairs will not result from the women's liberation movement, but from economic factors and technological change,” she said.

“Women's lib movements really are a consequence of technological change; they have appeared at the historical moment when a sharp reduction in the occupational group known as mothers is mandatory, and the technological capacity to achieve it is available.”

“... We are forced to face the fact that if we do not take from women their role of mother and replace it with something else, we will be throttled by the overproduction of babies,” the sociologist cautions.

“We thus face the need to demand that the ancient and honorable occupation of motherhood fall into disrepute, and that women commit themselves to other occupations. Women must be liberated to enjoy the fruits of other occupations, whether they want to be or not.”

THE AMERICAN woman today has two to three children instead of half a dozen or more. Childbirth no longer is like going into the front lines of combat. The mom doesn't stay up through the night with her sick children the way mothers used to. Medicines make that possible. Diaper services, convenience foods, wash-and-wear clothing have freed her more. The once 18-hour-a-day chore of mothering has been reduced, according to Professor Binstock, to a mere three hours a day.

Mothers for some time have been fighting to hold onto their important status, despite the decline in actual necessary services rendered.

“Every occupational group fights for survival when threatened with technological obsolescence and tries to retain a monopoly over its technical skills,” she said.

PROF. BINSTOCK maintains that young people are being mothered to death. “They have been subject to a level of scrutiny and maternal investment and guilt that paralyzes them and makes them crawl the walls and scream for freedom,” she said.

“They long for real internal choice — not choice forced on them by guilt. And they are presenting us with magnificent new possibilities for freedom in the 21st century.”

When the day that sociologist sees arrives, women will have a free choice of economic roles.

And — to repeat: In just 20 years.

Speaking Of...

The Progress Of Women

by KAY MARSH

Well, they got a woman for president — and her husband for vice president. “They,” in this case, is not the United States, but the trustees of Vermont's Bennington College, a highly prestigious former women's college which admitted its first male students two years ago.

Bennington's first woman president is Gail Thain Parker, a former Harvard professor. And the vice president? He's Thomas D. Parker, Gail Parker's husband.

What are the Parkers like? Young: she's 29, he's 30; they have a 6-year-old daughter, Julia. An administrator at Harvard for the past four years, he'll receive his doctorate this year. She earned her Ph.D. in history of American Civilization in 1969, has published books on American women and the science of faith healing and is now working on her third book. Both are Midwestern intellectuals: he's from Oklahoma, she's from Illinois (where she led the top-tracked students in her Evanston High School). Both graduated from Harvard in 1964: he, cum laude (with honors) and she, summa cum laude (with highest honors). She credits her father, an assistant dean of the University of Chicago, with encouraging her in her career. “I was,” she said in a recent interview, “carefully protected from knowing I was a woman” in the sense of being discriminated against.

HIS AND HERS. The Parkers worked together to put themselves through school and foresee no special difficulties in working together to run a college. Parker says that his wife is more of an academic while he is more of an administrator. They plan to share the administrative duties at Bennington, though she will concern herself primarily with academic matters. She also expects to continue her teaching and research.

Since the appointments were announced in June, interviews with the couple have inevitably included questions about the implications of a two-career marriage and especially on how a man feels about working for his wife. The Parkers feel that the arrangement will not hurt his male ego. As she quips, “It's not everyone who gets to sleep with the president.”

Gail Parker is one of the most interesting women of achievement to make this year's headlines. And here, to help commemorate the recent Women's Equality Day (marking the 52nd birthday of woman's right to vote, celebrated Aug. 26), is an honor roll of a few other outstanding women. Though the list is far from complete, their accomplishments do represent the progress of women in this exciting 52nd year of suffrage.

MATINA S. HORNER, assistant professor of clinical psychology, was named president of Radcliffe on May 15. She is 32.

JOANNE E. PIERCE, a former nun, and SUSAN LYNN ROLEY, a former Marine Corps officer, were sworn in on July 17 as the FBI's first women agents.

MARY ELLA ROBERTSON, 47, was named in May to the board of directors of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. Professor of social policy and administration at Boston College Graduate School of Social Work, she is both the first woman and the first black ever to be appointed to the insurance company's board.

JUANITA M. KREPS, economics professor and dean of the woman's college and assistant provost at Duke University, was elected last month as the first woman director of the New York Stock Exchange.

MARINA VON NEUMANN WHITMAN, another economist, was named in January as the first woman to serve on President Nixon's “three-man” Council of Economic Advisers. Mrs. Whitman, 36, graduated from Radcliffe in 1956, received her doctorate in 1962 from Columbia University, had taught economics at the University of Pittsburgh since 1963.

JEAN WESTWOOD of Utah became chairman of the Democratic National Committee in July.

And, finally, there's JEANETTE RANKIN, 91, who ended the male monopoly in Congress when she was elected to the House from Montana in 1916. Serving a second term (1940-42), she cast the sole dissenting vote against entry into World War II. A former suffragette (from 1910), a lifelong pacifist and activist, Miss Rankin was named by the National Organization for Women as the first member of its Susan B. Anthony Hall of Fame. In her March acceptance speech, Miss Rankin predicted, “The women's movement is going to take forward steps beyond anything we can envision today.”

Meet Mr. And Mrs. Newman

Barbara Gail Joynt chose a red, white and navy blue color scheme for her marriage Aug. 5 to Jay Brian Newman. Her attendants were in navy blue chiffon over navy taffeta with cuffs of the bishop sleeves and the hemlines trimmed in red and white. The girls also wore white picture hats trimmed with navy ribbons.

Both Barbara, daughter of the junior John Joynts, 1418 E. Small Lane, Mount Prospect, and Jay, son of the Albert H. Newmans, 2003 Cayuga Lane, Mount Prospect, are graduates of Wheeling High School and Augustana College, Rock Island. Both also are employed by Wheeling School District 21, Barbara as a speech therapist at Riley and Sandburg schools and Jay as a science teacher at Cooper Junior High.

Their double ring wedding took place at 5:30 p.m. in First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, with Barbara wearing a white sata peau gown with Venise lace appliques. The Empire bodice had a scooped neckline and long, full bishop sleeves, and A-line skirt ending in a chapel train. Her headpiece was a Camelot cap of Venise lace, and she carried a nosegay of roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, Spider mums and carnations, all in white.

HER BRIDESMAIDS, Nancy Valee, Macomb, as maid of honor, and Elizabeth Bergstrom, Champaign, Susan Stahnke, Macomb, a cousin, Marilyn Lavin of Phoenix, Ariz., and the groom's sister, Alison Newman, Mount Prospect, had nosegays of multi-color garden flowers.

Best man was Robert Collier, Hazlet, N.J., and ushers were the groom's brothers, Mark and Bert Newman, Mount Prospect, Paul Meincke, Rock Island, Ill., Drew Boster, Quincy, Ill., and the bride's cousin, Robert Schafer, Steamboat Springs, Colo.

A dinner reception for 160 guests was held at Brookwood Country Club after which the couple left on a 2-week honeymoon in Las Vegas and Arizona. Since Aug. 20 Barbara and Jay have been at home in an apartment at 2403 Kennicott, Arlington Heights.

Prospect High Pair Married

Prospect High School graduates of last year, Paula Marie Butler and David Brent Harbach were married July 22 in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. The couple first met during football season at the high school when Paula was a cheerleader.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Paul E. Butler, now of Rockford. David's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis of 416 Larkdale Lane, Mount Prospect.

The Davises hosted an outdoor reception and buffet dinner at their home after the wedding. Eighty guests greeted the newlyweds there. After a week's honeymoon in Wisconsin, Paula and David are living in Hoffman Estates.

The bridegroom works for H. B. Fuller Co. in Palatine.

Paula's sister Sue was her maid of honor, and bridesmaids were twins Linda and Nancy Hering, who were on the cheerleader squad at Prospect with Paula.

Best man was Tom Schreiber of Mount Prospect. The ushers were Mike Brierton of Arlington Heights and Tom Breen of Mount Prospect.

Woman's Club To Serve Tea In Inverness

The Inverness Woman's Club is hosting its annual tea on Monday, Sept. 11, to welcome new residents in the community. Newcomers and the club members are invited to the Inverness Community House from 1 to 3 p.m. for this first fall event.

On display will be the certificates of merit from the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs for music in 1971-72 and the community improvement citation from the General Federation for the club's Colfax Beautification Project.

A scrapbook depicting the growth of the project will also be exhibited.

THE PRESIDENT for the coming year is Mrs. Louis Gross. Mrs. Robert Jaeger is first vice president; Mrs. James Reed, second vice; Mrs. Lyle Rutherford, third vice; and Mrs. Burr Hupp, fourth vice.

Mrs. Edward Gunderson Jr. is recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Dohring, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Florian Kamin, treasurer; Mrs. William Alexander, director; and Mrs. Fred Nicklas, organizational advisor.

Skip The Difference

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Women executives do not need — and should not want — special consideration in handling their jobs, says a University of Michigan researcher.

B. Susan Bishop, of the university's Bureau of Industrial Relations, says that most differences in executive performance between men and women are not due to sex.

"Any differences . . . are related to personal and individual style," she says.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: My family is very fond of custard, and while they enjoy the custards I make, they can't compare with what we used to have in England when I was a youngster. Do you know of a favorite custard I might try? — Mrs. Robert Monroe

The custard this family likes is plain, old, boiled custard. My mother-in-law brought the recipe with her from England. Try it — it might be the same one. Blend 4 tablespoons sugar with 1 tablespoon cornstarch and ¼ teaspoon salt, and add a slightly beaten egg. Slowly add two cups scalded milk, stirring as you do. Cook over boiling water and take off just before it starts to curdle. If it does curdle, beat for a minute with an egg beater. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, strain and pour into custard cups. This makes four average servings.

Dear Dorothy: This is how I keep the birds from taking all the berries from the trees: I put holes through several aluminum foil pie tins, put a string through and hang them around the tree. The tiniest bit of breeze will keep them moving. Tried the same trick successfully on stakes in the garden. — Lydia Oliver

Dear Dorothy: My family loves to go picnicking, and I keep wondering how to keep the things they like cold so there's no danger of spoilage. Any suggestions? — Mrs. Robert Cook

Put the food in a well-insulated box or chest in which you also have a chemically frozen brick (can).

Dear Dorothy: How long will homemade marshmallow fudge keep in the freezer? — Mrs. L. Hummel

In the proper container, from 6 to 12 months.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

They Won First Place—In Love

Gail June Tagtmeier

Mary Crescence Michel

Diane Losey

Jeanette Lawson

Gail June Tagtmeier of Arlington Heights and Stanley J. Gudas of Whiting, Ind., are engaged and planning an Oct. 28 wedding. The news comes from Gail's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Swartz of 116 W. St. James, Arlington.

She is also the daughter of the late Willard Tagtmeier. A graduate of Arlington High School, Gail works at the First National Bank of Mount Prospect.

Her fiancé is a Purdue University graduate employed by Montgomery Ward's in Chicago. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gudas of Whiting.

Sept. 9 is the wedding date set by Mary Crescence Michel of Cornwall on Hudson, N.Y., and Thomas J. Epperly, son of the John R. Epperlys of Mount Prospect.

The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by the bride-elect's parents, Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. T. J. Michel.

Mary is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and teaches fifth grade in Cornwall, N. Y. Her fiancé is a graduate of St. Viator High School, attends the University of Minnesota and is currently playing with the Minnesota Twins Farm Club in Lynchburg, Va.

The engagement of Diane Losey to Eugene Eshbach Jr. is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Losey, 804 Carol Lane, Mount Prospect. The wedding is set for April '73.

Diane's fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Eshbach of Willow Street Pa., and works in Des Plaines for Nuclear-Chicago. He is a graduate of DeVry Institute of Technology, Chicago.

The bride-to-be attended Forest View High School, graduating last year, and is a dental assistant for an orthodontist whose offices are in Wheeling and Chicago.

Jeanette L. Lawson's engagement to Charles F. Hulse, son of the Morton F. Hulses of Mechanicsburg, Pa., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Troy J. Lawson, 5 Cedar St., Willoway Terrace, Arlington Heights.

The wedding is planned for next July.

A '71 graduate of Elk Grove High School, Jeanette works for Allstate Insurance Co. in Northbrook. Her fiancé is stationed at Great Lakes, Ill., with the U. S. Navy.

Guests Come From Far Away Places

The bride's brother came home from Guam and the groom's brother came home from India for the wedding of Judith Adams and James Rambert. Roy Adams, a serviceman stationed on the Pacific island, was one of the groom's ushers, but Tom Rambert, who is doing seminary work in India, wasn't sure of his arrival time; however, three other brothers of the groom were in the wedding party.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Adams, 615 E. Davis, Arlington Heights, and James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rambert, Northbrook.

A country setting was used for the Aug. 5, double ring wedding which took place in the Long Grove Church. The country theme followed through in the five o'clock ceremony and also for the reception for 140 guests that followed in the Hobson House, Long Grove.

JUDY CHOSE an Empire gown of white dotted swiss trimmed in orchid velvet ribbon. The gown featured a fitted bodice, long bishop sleeves and a deep flounce at the hemline. Her two-tiered veil was attached to a dotted swiss Camellot bonnet trimmed in orchid velvet ribbon, and her flowers were the garden variety in tones of white, pink and orchid.

The brides attendants' flowers also had a "just picked" look, and besides the white, pink and orchid, also included blue. Their gowns were orchid with white lace flocking with short puffed sleeves, floor-length skirts and Empire bodices.

Chris McAllister, the former Chris Schimpf of Arlington Heights, college roommate of the bride now living in Pontiac, Ill., was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Mrs. Peggy Zoulek, West Chicago, Rhonda Wood, Arlington Heights, and Cindy Adams, a cousin from Jacksonville, Ill. Junior bridesmaid was 10-year-old Debbie Zoulek, niece of the bride.

KEN PIENIA, Chicago, college roommate of the groom, was best man, and besides the bride's brother Roy, ushers were Jack, Mike and Steve Rambert, Northbrook.

Judy, a graduate of Arlington High School and an area beauty school, studied two years at Illinois State University and took teacher's training at the Arlington Academy of Beauty Culture. She is now a teacher at the Academy.

James, a graduate of Illinois State, where the couple met, teaches biology in Bloom Township High School, Chicago Heights.

The newlyweds honeymooned for a week in Vail, Colo., and are now making their home in Arlington Heights.

A Reminder To Brides

With summer weddings in full swing, the Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting the news. Full information is printed on forms available at the Herald Offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due in Herald office within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

It's Fashion

by United Press International School girls like skirts above the knee or even shorter than that. Fashion authorities say what determines the skirt length is "what all the other kids are wearing."

Big on every campus: pantyhose or tights to match a skirt.

Teenage girls who are a little too conservative to wear wild prints on the outside might consider this: a wild-colored or crazy printed girdle or underpants. Either is bound to bring a howl from the girls in the gym locker rooms.

Teenagers ought to avoid the temptation to overdo on jewelry. Single circle or bangle bracelets, charm bracelets and nongraduated pearls filled the bill for those who don't want to look like a jewelry-counter walking. Also good: a signet or guard ring.

Study labels. Most clothes now have hangtags that tell about care for a garment's specific fabrics. Not knowing can add up to disaster. That's the word for ruining a dress or some other wearable you just "can't live without."

La Leche Meets

LA LECHE MEETS

Mount Prospect La Leche League is meeting tonight at 8:30 in the home of Mrs. Leo Lichodziejewski, 1638 Barberrry Lane, Mount Prospect.

This session on "Nutrition, Weaning of the Breastfed Baby, Allergies and Related Subjects," will conclude the current series. Books and information are available through the League's library.

For A Happy Life

It's Fun in August To:

1. Decide to handle your family finances as if they were a business.
2. Make plans for a different kind of Christmas — rent a mountain cabin, go to New Orleans, or take a 7-day cruise.
3. Stock up on stationery that gives you a kick. Get caught up on every letter you owe.
4. Look for ways to improve the efficiency of your kitchen — new knife racks, more shelves, better drawer dividers.
5. Invite a gang of people over just to feast on sweet corn.
6. Decide to have the happiest household in the block.
7. Learn to outdo your husband at fishing.
8. Note this by Alexander Smith: "If a man is worth knowing at all, he is worth knowing well."

A Paddock Review

"Company," Super Lively At Forum

by GENIE CAMPBELL

When I see a really super show, I can't say enough about it. That's how "Company" hit me on opening night last week. It sparkles!

The storyline is fresh and contemporary and the entire package of cast, music and exceedingly witty dialog makes for a highly enjoyable evening at the Forum Theater in Summit where "Company" is being staged.

The tongue-in-cheek approach to marriage and all the fluff caught up with it succeeds in putting matrimonial ties in clear perspective.

"These good and crazy friends . . . your married friends . . . that's what it's all about . . . company!"

And the show thus gets off to a rollicking good start that doesn't slow its pace throughout the entire performance.

"COMPANY" opens as out-going Robert, an eligible bachelor, is celebrating his 35th birthday will all of his married friends.

The question arises: Shouldn't Robert be settling down? They think so. Robert wonders too.

But there are good sides and there are the bad sides to marriage and Robert is confronted with both. So is the audience as we accompany him through a series of short vignettes, visits with the individual wedded couples that make up his social circle.

The small rifts and strifes of marriage that are brought out in the musical and have a way of touching everyone (even singles who are aware that a marriage contract need not be signed to feel them) are so immersed in witticism that laughter can be the only possible reaction. But still the ideas carry home.

THE SEPARATE episodes of the two-act musical comedy are held together by a stimulating score of music that encourages, almost challenges, everyone to actively participate and have fun.

In the first act lots of pep and spirit are dished out in the animated number "You Could Drive a Person Crazy," sung and danced by Melody Rogers, Iris Lieberman and Cynthia Dalbey, a trio who play Robert's three girls.

Then in the beginning of the second act the entire company, with Michael Davis as Robert, comes on strong with "Side by Side by Side." Immediately following they go into "What Would We Do Without You," complete with a little soft shoe, flag waving, bugle blowing and cymbal crashing.

MICHAEL DAVIS, last seen in Chicago in "1776," is excellent as the wandering bachelor who is not against settling down per se, but just hasn't met the right girl.

The five couples making up the cast are each unique and tailor-made for their individual roles.

First we meet Don Dolan and Joan Dunham as Harry and Sarah. He's sworn off drinking but cheats when his wife's back is turned, and she's on a constant unsuccessful diet . . . "I kill for chocolate."

Sarah has been taking karate lessons. Her husband who guffaws at the idea, coaxes her to demonstrate her ability on him in a scene that is uproariously funny. He is immediately sorry.

AND ALSO HIGHLY amusing is the scene with Ami Silvestre and Alan Sanderson as Jenny and David. Smoking marijuana for the first time, Jenny, normally quiet and conservative, rattles off a blue streak of socially unacceptable words.

But by far my favorite of Robert's friends is Amy, played by Melissa Hart. She is fantastic as a frustrated bride-to-be who decides on the morning of her wedding to call the whole thing off. The patient bridegroom is played by David Dwight.

Nervous and extremely upset, Melissa delights the audience with her number, "Getting Married Today" that is even better because of the crazy facial expressions she includes.

Irene Daily stars as the married cynic of the group who is already on her third husband and has a cutting retort for anything said. She warns Robert never to become attached. Her partner is played by Dennis Kelly.

The picture is completed with Mary Lynn Kolas and Jim Linduska as Susan and Peter, a couple who are divorced but still very attached mates. Peter had so much fun while getting the divorce in Mexico, he invited Susan to come join him.

GETTING THE MOST out of her role is Cynthia Dalbey as April, a lovely but flighty stewardess. Particularly good is the bedroom scene between her and Robert.

The numerous scene changes are easily made with portable glass and chrome settings borrowed from the Broadway production and very tastefully and appropriately designed.

But I'm only one of many who have thus far liked the musical.

"Company" comes to the Forum bearing all the right credentials. The New York Drama Critics' Circle voted it the best musical of last season and it also swept the year's Antoinette Perry Awards with six "Tonys."

George Furth, a native Chicagoan, won his for the script and Stephen Sondheim walked off with two, one for the music and another for the lyrics.

This Chicago production is being directed by William Pullinsi. I highly endorse it.
